TRACK ELEVATION DEADLOCK BROKEN

Pennsylvania Accepts City's Proposition on Work West of Calhoun Street, Including New Station.

DIVISION OF COST TO BE SETTLED LATER

In a letter submitted to the board of public works today the Pennsylvania company through Joseph Wood, vice president, accepted a proposition to proceed with the work incidental to grade separation west of Calhoun street, and as soon as the city council gives its approval actual work will be taken up.

This includes the erection of a new passenger station, the opening of Harrison street under the company's right of way without legal procedure, additional trackage across Calhoun street, the vacation of Chicago street from McClellan street to Calhoun, of the dead ends of McClellan and Webster streets, and the alleys included in this territory, the cancellation of a debt of $2,000 and ends a fight that has been waged for a couple of years.

Proceed Under the Law.

The work will be done under the present law which is designated as a special track elevation act and which provides a division of cost at street intersections on a basis of 25 per cent to the city and the remainder to the railroad company.

The company has heretofore objected strenuously to paying any part of the cost of elevation except within the confines of its right of way and insisted that all depressions, approaches, damages to property and other expenses incidental to the work outside its property lines should be born entirely by the municipality.

Mr. Wood's Letter.

The following letter to the board of public works from Mr. Wood disposes of the matter:

Replying to your letter of March 25, 1912: I have to say that we are willing to accede to your request that we leave open for future consideration and determination the question of the apportionment of the cost of the highway approaches outside the limits of the railway right of way.

We will agree to proceed with the construction of the work enjoined upon us by the Fort Wayne Special Act, upon the terms and conditions set forth in your letters of February 27 and March 25th. This is upon the understanding that the city of Fort Wayne will in like manner proceed with the work of construction beneath the superstructures and of the approaches thereto.

In other words, the city of Fort Wayne and the Pennsylvania company will each proceed strictly according to the act in question as to the preliminary matters and the work of construction; and all questions of cost and the apportionment thereof between the city and the company will be decided after the work is done, either by amicable agreement or by the courts, if necessary.

Trusting and believing that our conclusions will meet with your cordial approval, I am,

Yours truly,
JOSEPH WOOD,
Vice President

To Draw Up a Contract.

The next step in the matter will be to formulate a contract embracing the terms agreed upon and after this has been signed by the board of public works and the officials of the Pennsylvania company it will go to the city council for ratification.

Just how long this will take is a matter that can not be foretold as the agreement will have to be carefully considered by both parties to see that all of the details are included.

Tentative plans for the new station have already been drawn, but some changes may be necessitated by the

MAY ELECTRIFY FORT WAYNE-FINDLAY ROAD.

Findlay, O., April 8.—The rumor is prevalent here that the Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western railroad, running from this city to Fort Wayne, Ind., a distance of 107 miles, is to be electrified. W. C. Loree, general manager of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad, during the past week, made an inspection of this line, and from the talk that has been heard it is said the purpose of Mr. Loree's trip was to determine the advisability of equipping it with electricity.

The Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western railroad was built twenty years ago by Charles N. Haskell, ex-Governor of Oklahoma, and has since had a checkered career, passing through receiverships and other trouble. It was built as a connecting link of the shortest trunk line between New York and Chicago.

BRYAN GREETED BY COMMITTEE

Great Orator is Being Royally Entertained This Afternoon.

FEAST AND LECTURE

William Jennings Bryan, accompanied by Dr. S. C. Dickey, of the Winona Assembly and Summer School association, arrived in Fort Wayne at 2 o'clock this afternoon over the Fort Wayne and Springfield railway and was met at the interurban station by a local reception committee composed of S. F. Bowser, chairman; E. F. Yarnelle, B. Paul Mossman, Rev. Henry B. Master, E. G. Hoffman and Charles H. Worden.

During his stay in Fort Wayne and until after the meeting and lecture tonight at Princess rink, Mr. Bryan will be entertained by the committee at the Anthony hotel. During the afternoon Mr. Bryan and Dr. Dickey were escorted about the city in automobiles. At 6 o'clock this evening the great orator will be the guest of honor at an informal banquet to be spread at the Anthony hotel. Sixty plates will be laid and S. F. Bowser will preside as toastmaster. Mr. Bryan will be the only speaker.

Following the dinner Mr. Bryan will be whisked in an automobile to Princess rink, where he will speak in behalf of Winona, of which he is to be president. The subject on which he will discourse is "Signs of the Times." This is one of Mr. Bryan's greatest themes and one that has entranced gigantic and intellectual audiences in all parts of the country. Every penny of the proceeds of the lecture will go toward liquidating the debt of Winona.

Would Not Talk Politics.

Hale and hearty as in earlier days, Mr. Bryan met local friends at the hotel. His mission here at this time, however, is not pertaining in any measure to politics and he kept away from this subject in all of his conversation.

"I will not talk politics," said Mr. Bryan. "My mission here is on an entirely different matter and I do not want to say a word about the political situation. When a man talks politics he usually wants to say something and on my present lecture tour I will refrain from discussing the present condition of affairs.

"I wish arrangements could have been made so that the two lectures in your city would not interfere with each other. Mr. Roosevelt will arrive in the city during the midst of the meeting at Princess rink, and he will have left before our meeting is over. I would derive great pleasure in seeing and listening to Mr. Roosevelt."

TAFT QUITS JOB FOR TWO MINUTES

Permits a Babe of Seven Months to Try Presidential Chair.

BEAMED IN DELIGHT

Washington, April 8.—President Taft resigned his chair for a couple of minutes today to permit Senator Smoot, of Utah, to inaugurate his seven-months-old grandson, Reid Smoot Carton, behind the big desk over which passes each day the business of the nation.

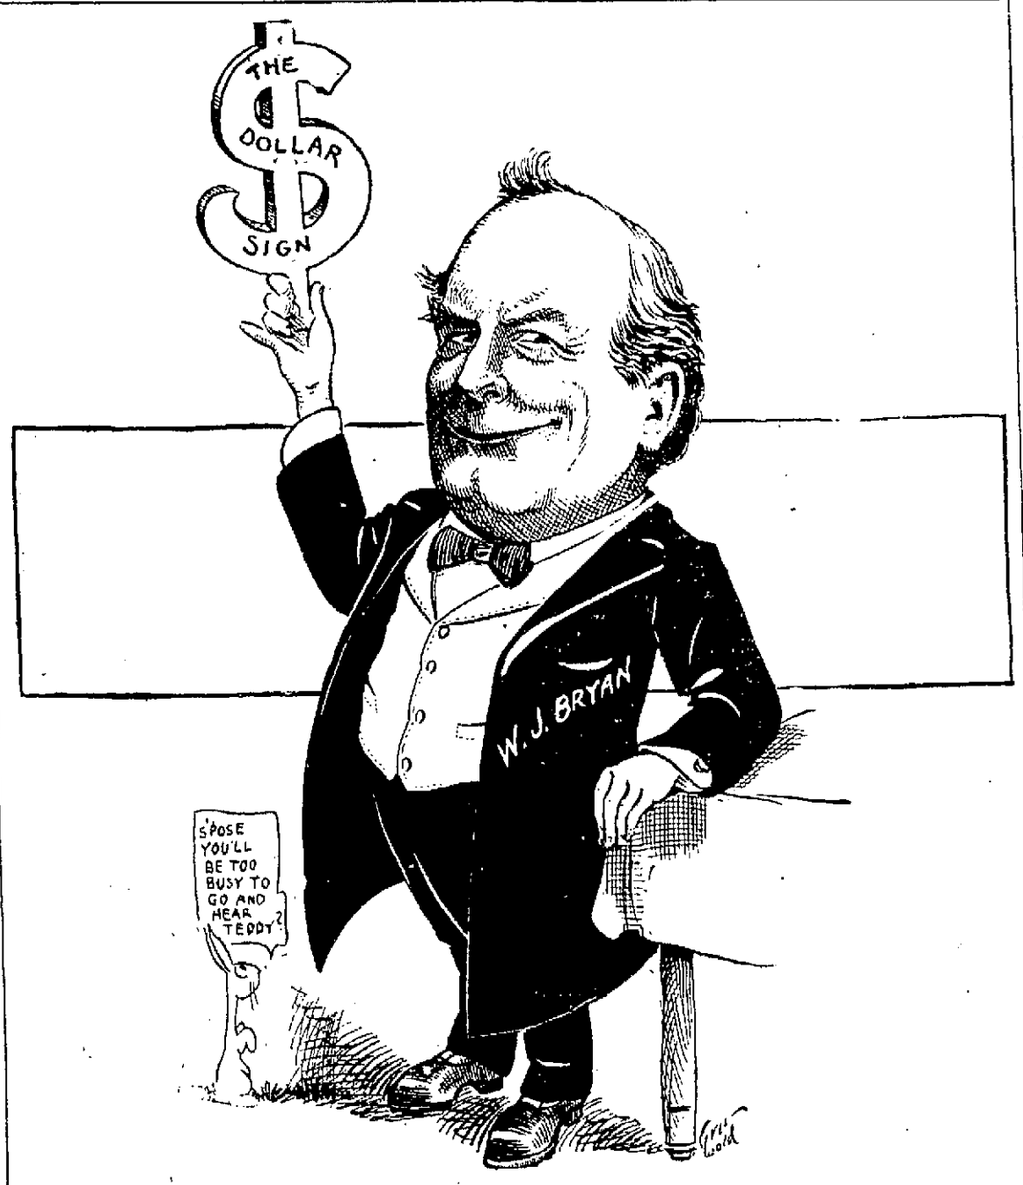
"I think he will be president some day" said Senator Smoot, and several dozen waiting handshakers smiled in sympathetic understanding.

"He's a fine looking boy," said the president, as he picked him up and kissed him, while grandfather and grandmother and the boy's mother beamed their delight.

Easter Monday Egg Rolling.

Thousands of children today crowded the main grounds of the white house, the president's back yard, to join in the annual Easter Monday egg rolling. The air was chilly, but otherwise the day was almost perfect and children of all sorts and conditions, with their mothers, big sisters and nurses, flocked in to play on the white house grounds.

One of "The Signs of the Times"



Mr. Bryan, in coming to Fort Wayne to speak this evening at Princess rink, is here really in the interest of the "money question"—that is, the object of the lecture will be to gather in as many as possible of these "Signs of the Times" to promote the interests of Winona Assembly. Mr. Bryan gives his services free.

RUNS BLAZING SHIP ON ROCKS

Ontario's Wireless Distress Signals Bring Assistance and Passengers Are Taken Off in Tugs.

Ditch Plain Life Saving Station, L. I., April 8.—The steamer Ontario, 2,000 tons burden, from Baltimore to Boston with 15 passengers and a crew of forty was run on the rocks off Montauk Point by her captain early today with a fire in her hold. The passengers were transferred in life boats to the tug Tasco, from New London, Conn., which rushed to the scene in response to the Ontario's S. O. S. wireless signals and after six hours' work the fire in the Ontario's hold was brought under control.

The vessel is hard aground with a light sea running and but little wind, and there is little danger apparently of her going to pieces. Life savers hovered near the vessel in their boats all morning in readiness to take off the crew, but Captain Bond when the fire was under control, declared that there would be no need for their services.

Crew Remains on Board.

A breeches buoy was shot over the vessel from the shore when she first went on the rocks at 3 o'clock this morning but the captain after transferring the passengers to a tug sent word by life-savers that his crew would remain on board.

Long before daylight they had chopped a dozen holes through the pilot house and water was pumped by the vessel's own engine into the hold. At 6 o'clock Captain Bond sent word ashore that the progress of the fire had been checked.

The fire broke out during the night and became so threatening that shortly before 2 o'clock this morning Captain Bond ordered the wireless operator to send S. O. S. distress signals. An hour later he turned back on his course and drove the vessel full speed ahead for the reefs off Montauk Point.

Wireless Sputtered With News.

Through the early morning hours the wireless sputtered along the entire north Atlantic coast with news of the vessel's danger. Ten minutes later the men at this station saw the ship on the rocks, hurried off with a breeches buoy apparatus, and later dragged their surf boat on its truck three miles over the beach to the burning steamer.

The life-savers, reinforced by a crew from the Hither Plain station, two miles away, transferred the passengers in small boats to a tug and stood off at readiness to take the crew ashore if need be. The passengers were transferred in the Ontario's life boats.

Although the flames could not be seen, a great cloud of steam and smoke arose from the burning ship and spread a haze along the water front for miles. Captain Bond told the life-savers the fire was confined entirely to the hold. A light sea was running and there was little wind. The hull of the vessel was badly blistered on the outside.

The Ontario is a vessel of 1,967 tons net. She is 280 feet long, of steel and was built in 1904. She left Baltimore Saturday.

Picked Up Wireless Call.

The revenue cutters Mohawk and Seneca picked up the wireless call at New York and the cutter Acushnet, at Boston, hurried to the scene. They were able to give but little assistance, however.

At 8:30 o'clock Captain Bond sent word ashore that the fire was under control. The vessel was then hard aground and apparently in no danger of breaking up. The tug with the Ontario's passengers on board was still along side. It was reported the passengers would be landed at New London, Conn.

A wrecking tug is on the way here from New York to pull the vessel off the rocks if possible, when the fire is extinguished.

CALLED TO FIX CONVENTION DAY

Sims Summons Republican State Committee for Thursday.

DATE WILL BE LATE

Indianapolis, Ind., April 8.—Fred A. Sims, republican state chairman, today called a meeting of the state committee for 7:30 next Thursday night at the headquarters at the Claypool for the purpose of fixing the time for holding the republican state convention.

At this convention the republican state ticket will be nominated and the state platform will be adopted. There has been some talk about holding the convention on July 2, but the general opinion among republicans appears to be that this will not be a satisfactory date, and that it should be set for some time later in the season, either the latter part of July or the first part of August.

It is pointed out that the republican national convention takes place in June and that the Indiana republicans ought to have some time after the event before holding their state convention. It is the province of the state committee to select the convention date and to make all arrangements for the meeting.

Miss Emma Kettler, of 318 East Wayne street, began the first of April a course of training in the school for nurses connected with Grace hospital, Detroit, Mich. The course will take three years.

GILHAMS STILL CRITICALLY ILL

Attending Physicians See No Change After Stroke of Apoplexy.

HE IS UNCONSCIOUS

[Special to The Sentinel.]

Lagrange, Ind., April 8.—The condition of ex-Congressman Clarence C. Gilhams, who suffered a stroke of apoplexy Sunday morning, is still extremely critical. While the attending physicians hold hope for his recovery, no change, either better or worse, was noted during the morning. Mr. Gilhams is unconscious except for brief irregular intervals. He suffered the attack at 10 o'clock Sunday morning and the entire right side of his body is paralyzed. Dr. Bozelle is with him almost constantly.

Several months ago Mr. Gilhams suffered a similar but milder attack and since that time his health has been greatly impaired.

Mr. Gilhams is a native of Lagrange county and is 52 years of age. He has long been prominent in public life and a leader in politics. Only recently efforts were made by his friends to have him made the republican candidate for governor. He served as Lagrange county auditor two terms of four years each and was representative in congress from the Twelfth district from 1900 to 1908.

LOCAL COMPANY CONCERNED.

Property of Noble Machine Works is Damaged by Flood.

Reports of flood damage to their southern holdings have been communicated to the Noble Machine works of Fort Wayne. The local company controls vast timber land and cooperage manufacturing plants in Mississippi, Tennessee, Arkansas and Missouri and some of the business, it is said, is directly in the heart of the flood stricken territory. It is judged that stock damage will be large, but until the water recedes definite figures cannot be named.

JUDGE JORDAN'S FUNERAL.

Martinsville, Ind., April 8.—The funeral of James H. Jordan, judge of the Indiana supreme court, was held this afternoon. The services were at the house and were conducted by the Rev. A. D. Batchelor of the Methodist church. The burial was in the South Park cemetery. Governor Marshall, state officers and members of the supreme court attended.

TRAVEL TO POLLS IN SKIFFS TO VOTE "DRY."

Memphis, Tenn., April 8.—New Madrid, Mo., overflowed to a depth of several feet by the Mississippi river flood, is nevertheless "dry." At least the "drys" won in a local option election Saturday. Voters came to the polls in skiffs, in motor launches and on rafts and when the rubber-booted election clerks completed their count it was shown that the "wets" were beaten by 300 votes. Belated returns from the election were received here today.

COLONEL HEADED FOR FORT WAYNE

Roosevelt Sweeps Across Illinois in Final Leg of Tour.

GETS HERE TONIGHT

Springfield, Ill., April 8. The last part of Col. Roosevelt's campaign tour of Illinois began today with his departure from Springfield at 8 o'clock. The colonel was accompanied by Chauncey Dewey, Roosevelt's manager for Illinois, and a score of his associates in the campaign.

The first stop scheduled is at Clinton at 9:15. Then came Decatur at 10 o'clock; Sullivan, 11:20; Mattoon, 12:05; Tuscola, 12:55; Champaign, 1:45, and Danville at 3:45.

Then crossing into Indiana Col. Roosevelt will speak at Lafayette, Logansport, Peru, Wabash and Fort Wayne. Thence he goes to Pittsburg by special train.

IN M'KINLEY'S HOME.

Mr. Roosevelt Takes Rap at Taft's Political General.

Decatur, Ill., April 8.—In the home district of Congressman McKinley, manager of President Taft's campaign, Col. Roosevelt today took up the cudgel against the congressman.

"Speaking to a large crowd in front of the court house at Clinton, Col. Roosevelt said: "I understand that Mr. Taft's manager, Mr. McKinley, said some time ago that this district was for Mr. Taft to a man, but apparently he was mistaken. I understand he told you last week that Mr. Taft was not a politician and that he and the other Taft workers groaned every day that he was not.

"But Mr. Taft's whole campaign is entrusted to as thorough going politicians as there are in the United States; to Messrs. Tawney, Barnes, Penrose, Gallinger, Cannon, Guggenheim, Lorimer and others with whom Mr. McKinley is associated.

Mr. McKinley need not groan about finding himself lonely for lack of associates who are politicians; the professional, bread and butter politicians are all for Mr. Taft. There never was a straighter line-up than this between the politicians and the plain people and at least here in Illinois the plain people have the chance to speak. We look to Illinois to set the keynote of this campaign as Illinois stands in the most important position of any state."

The colonel repeated his attack on Senator Lorimer, saying it was infamy to couple the senator's name with that of Lincoln.

WILL MAKE FIGHT FOR IT.

Condition of Peter Lapinsky, Who Was Shot Is Encouraging.

Although Dr. J. M. Dinnen, who is attending Peter Lapinsky, shot by Jay Robinson Saturday, is not willing to say the patient will recover, he says he will make a fight for it and that he has a good chance for his life.

A change for the better came yesterday and today the patient is much better than his physician had hoped for and it is probable that he will get well.

1,000 MAROONED ON HOUSE-TOPS AND CHURCH.

Memphis, Tenn., April 8.—One thousand or more persons are marooned on mounds, house-tops and in a church at Wyanoke, Ark., according to the statement of Mayor Crump, of Memphis, who returned to Memphis this afternoon after an inspection of the flood situation twelve miles south of Memphis.

Boats are being sent to these refugees. They are in sore straits, hungry and without drinking water. The refugees in the church built up stages with pews as the water rose.

Memphis, Tenn., April 8. Flood conditions throughout the Mississippi valley showed some improvement this morning, when a sunny day gave further encouragement to those conducting the work of rescue among the hundreds driven from their homes by the high water.

All levees in the flood menaced district were holding strong and at this point the river had subsided seven-tenths of a foot. With upper district levees holding, the strain on the dikes in the Yazoo section increased, and men worked all night on the embankments south of Memphis to bolster weak spots. The danger at several points along the Arkansas shore has not passed.

Two Hundred Narrowly Escape.

Two hundred levee workers narrowly escaped being swept away when the embankment caved sixteen miles south of Helena, Ark., yesterday. The town of Modoc near the break is twenty feet under water today. Modoc practically has been depopulated and those who remained took to flight when the roar of the water gave warning of its coming.

The steamer Kate Adams was near Modoc when the levee broke and rescued those imperiled. A hundred or more panic-stricken negroes were taken from a government barge moored to the bank. Later motor launches went into the flood and rescued a number of farmers from the roofs of their cabins, from trees and peaks of knolls which were above the water.

Relief Work Systemized.

The work of caring for the refugees from the lowlands is fast being systemized. Tents and supplies have been received at the more important centers and arrangements have been made for the establishment of a central relief headquarters at Helena.

Capt. Wm. P. Baker, stationed at Fort Logan H. Root, will be in charge of the Reelfoot lake region with headquarters at Tiptonville, Tenn. A relief train sent out from Forest City, Ark., yesterday to rescue farmers in the overflowed sections of St. Francis and Crittenden counties, returned last night with 100 refugees aboard, but with the mission only half completed. The train could not proceed further than the town of Heth, twenty miles east of this city. Beyond that point, where many persons are believed to be marooned, only boats can be of service.

Report Loss of Life.

Three Mississippi steamers reached Memphis today carrying hundreds of homeless persons from the flood-swept lands of Arkansas in the Modoc territory. Many of them report loss of life in several small towns that were inundated when the embankment was breached.

There is no chance to verify such reports, but it is generally believed that there have been fatalities in Phillips county, Arkansas.

The refugees who came this morning

A Mysterious "Case"

THE DRIVER of a wagon of one of the Fort Wayne breweries entered the office of a leading manufacturing institution and asked to see the manager. The manager has always been a strong temperance advocate and everybody knows it. The latter emerged from his private office and received a slip of paper handed him by the driver. He looked at it with a puzzled expression. It was a bill for a case of beer. He thrust it back into the hands of the collector as he said:

"This is a mistake. I've never bought a case of beer."

"But your name is So-and-So, ain't it?"

"Yes, but——"

"And you live at Such-and-Such a number on Columbia avenue in Lakeside, don't you?"

"Yes, but what has that got to do with it? I never ordered any beer at any time from anybody in my whole life," and he turned to re-enter his office.

"Well, hold on," responded the driver, "I just delivered a case to your residence, right after you telephoned for it, and I want the money."

"You never delivered any beer at my residence," retorted the injured manufacturer, and he took down the receiver of his 'phone to call his wife to prove the fact. His wife happened to be absent from home at the time, but her sister responded.

"Did anyone deliver anything at our house today?" he asked.

"Why, yes, there is something here," came the answer. "The man drove up with a wagon and brought in a box full of bottles which he said you ordered by telephone. The box is in the kitchen."

He brought in a box.

The manufacturer was dumbfounded. Everywhere he was known as a foe to the liquor business. And the neighbors had witnessed the whole transaction.

"Well," said he, "it's up there all right, but you go right up and take it away again."

And ever since then he has been trying to find out who played the joke on him by ordering the case and using his name in vain. He is one of the men who filed affidavits against the liquor sellers at the last session of the county fair.

MARSHALL TALKS AT WASHINGTON

Governor Discusses "The New Puritan" in Easter Address.

REPLETE WITH WIT

Washington, April 8.—Despite the continuous rains of Easter day, a crowd of about 1,000 men, including a large sprinkling of members of congress, heard Governor Marshall of Indiana lauded as a very promising presidential quantity at the First Congregational church yesterday afternoon. There is every indication that, if the rains had not interfered, the church would have been packed to the limit.

Easter flowers, banked high on the platform, gave a pretty and appropriate effect. Elaborate music, by soloist and quartet, preceded the governor's talk on "The New Puritan," which consumed an hour and a half.

Applause Was Frequent.

Senator Shively accompanied the governor when he appeared on the platform, where were seated such distinguished characters as Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, Stanton J. Peelle, chief justice of the court of claims, and Gen. John C. Black, president of the civil service commission.

Despite the solemnity of the day, applause greeted the governor when he arrived and applause was frequently interpolated during his remarks.

At the doors, as men entered, they were asked to sign petitions urging congress to pass legislation greatly restricting the number of saloons in the District of Columbia. This was done under Y. M. C. A. auspices and was regretted by some of the governor's friends.

Republican Lauds Governor.

After a flashlight camera man had done his work, H. B. McFarland, former president of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, proceeded to introduce Governor Marshall. Prefacing his remarks by stating that he himself is a republican, Mr. McFarland said that, if it is impossible for a republican to be elected, there is food for consolation in the fact that the next president may be one of two Presbyterian elders who are now running for the democratic nomination, one of whom was the speaker of the day. He spoke enthusiastically of Governor Marshall's qualities as a public man and a Christian, predicting he would be given a great welcome to Washington if elected president.

The governor's speech was replete with witty sayings and brilliant epigrams. Once, turning to Dr. Wiley, he said:

"There sits benzoate of soda. We have made the biggest of all fights against benzoate in Indiana. Out in Hoosierdom we have established the fact that there is nothing that can not be preserved without benzoate, if it is clean enough, and we don't propose to eat dirty stuff just for the pleasure of consuming benzoate."

Why He Quit the Law.

"Do you know why I forsook the practice of law in Indiana to enter politics?" asked the governor in the course of his address.

"Well, it was to preserve my self-respect. I wanted to get into a profession where my conscience could be given breathing room, where I would not have to wink one eye at the truth."

The governor deplored decadence in the practice of the professions of law, medicine and theology.

Representatives Crumpacker, Boehne, Dixon, Rauch, Barnhart, Cline and Morrison, of Indiana, occupied front seats. After the address Governor and Mrs. Marshall, Senator Shively and Dr. Wiley received all present. The governor and his wife started to Indianapolis at 6:45 p. m.

They occupied Lincoln's pew at the New York Avenue church in the morning.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR ROOSEVELT

Fighting Ex-President Will Address Fort Wayne People Tonight.

FROM A PLATFORM

All arrangements have been completed for the reception and address of Theodore Roosevelt here tonight. Austin W. Stults, in charge of local Roosevelt forces in the absence of Louis N. Litman, has been informed by telegram that Colonel Roosevelt's special will arrive over the Wabash, from Danville, at 8:35 o'clock this evening. The ex-president will have a half hour in Fort Wayne and has promised to speak at least ten minutes and probably longer. He will be introduced by C. S. Bash.

A platform is being erected at Holman and Clinton streets and while Mr. Roosevelt is waiting for his train, which leaves for Pittsburg at 9:10, he will speak to the people of Fort Wayne and vicinity. Accompanying the Roosevelt train will be Senator Albert J. Beveridge, Edwin M. Lee and Hon. Fred Landis, leaders of the Indiana Roosevelt forces.

It is the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt will again deliver another "fighting" speech and in view of the fact that his last address here was so brief, a larger crowd is expected.

JOHN B. CONNER DEAD.

Veteran Editor of Indiana Farmer Yields to Heart Disease.

Indianapolis, April 8.—John B. Conner, president of the Indiana Farmer company and the second state statistician of Indiana, died at 6 o'clock yesterday morning at his home, 1514 Park avenue, following an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Conner was stricken two weeks ago and forced to take his bed. For the last few days his condition had shown an improvement and it was believed that he would recover. He awakened at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning, however, complaining of hampered breathing. A physician was summoned, but death ensued half an hour later, due primarily to heart disease.

Mr. Conner was 80 years old and known to many farmers and members of the republican party in Indiana. For nearly forty years he had been identified with the Indiana Farmer company, which publishes a farmers' weekly magazine. He formerly was a member of the Indiana general assembly and was a member of the Indianapolis board of public safety under Mayor Denny.

TO INVESTIGATE DAMAGE.

Judge Taylor and Other Members of Commission to Inspect River.

Judge R. S. Taylor, of this city, a member of the Mississippi river commission, will leave April 2 in company with the other six members of the commission for St. Louis, where he will begin the inspection of the dikes along the great river. The purpose of the inspection is to ascertain the total destruction of property resulting from the flood. Judge Taylor has been a member of the river commission for thirty-one consecutive years.

The condition of the river from St. Louis to the gulf will be investigated and from data gathered on the trip will submit recommendations to the senatorial investigating committee. In discussing the flood Mr. Taylor declares that failure to appropriate sufficient funds to improve the river below Cairo, Ill., is responsible in a large measure for the havoc wrecked in the Mississippi basin.

CONCORDIA COLLEGE INSPECTION.

Captain Harrison Hall, of the general staff of the United States army, will conduct the annual military inspection of Concordia college on May 9. Owing to unfavorable weather the cadets have not had any out of doors practice this spring. Schools resumes after the Easter vacation on Wednesday and Captain Charles E. Reese plans to begin active field maneuvers and prepare the cadets for the inspection.

FIRE FOLLOWS AN EXPLOSION

Three-Story Building and a Clothing Stock is Badly Damaged.

CAUSE IS A MYSTERY

Fire following an explosion of unknown origin in the building at 1215 Calhoun street Saturday night, destroyed the $9,000 stock of clothing, shoes and furnishings owned by Ben Rosenberg, of South Bend, and practically gutted the structure, which is owned by H. C. Sites. Insurance to the amount of $8,000 was carried on the clothing, and the building was insured for $3,000.

The damage was confined to the one building. In a few minutes after the alarm had been turned in, practically the entire fire fighting force of the city was on the scene. Mr. Rosenberg, who leased the store room March 12, had planned to open the establishment next Wednesday. Mr. Rosenberg states that he has no knowledge of the cause of the explosion. There was no gas in the building and only one gallon of gasoline which was in the rear of the store room.

H. C. Sites, who purchased the property a year ago, states that he will rebuild the structure just as soon as damage estimates have been compiled. The side walls were not seriously damaged and remodeling will include a new front and rear. The building is three stories in height.

DIXON OUT IN A LETTER TO TAFT

Says President Will Become the Receiver of Stolen Goods.

IF HE DOESN'T ACT

Washington, April 8.—In an open letter to President Taft given out at Roosevelt headquarters here today, Senator Joseph M. Dixon, campaign manager for Col. Roosevelt, declares that the president "will become the deliberate receiver of stolen goods" if he does not repudiate the actions of certain federal office holders in the Kentucky elections Saturday and institute proceedings against them.

Senator Dixon's letter was sent as the result of a telegram received from E. C. O'Rear, former chief justice of the supreme court of Kentucky and republican candidate for governor at the last election. This telegram was as follows: "Later returns give Roosevelt the district but chairman of McCracken county, who is deputy postmaster at Paducah, signs Taft certificate though Roosevelt carries county by 1,006 to 517. In Carlisle county Roosevelt had all but three, one of whom was the chairman, but postmaster signs Taft certificate. The district chairman is postmaster at Mayfield. Nothing approaching these high-handed methods have ever been developed before in Kentucky politics."

TRAMP HAD HARD BATTLE ON TRIP

Drug Fiend Wanted to Give Him Shot in Arm During a Ride.

CITY COURT DOCKET

When Tom Mullen, hobo, entered a box car in Chicago to beat his way to Cleveland over the Nickel Plate road he did not calculate that the car would be sealed or that he would be compelled to take a long ride with a man crazed by the use of drugs and he was mighty glad when his cries attracted attention in the local yards and he was released.

John Ditton was his companion on the trip. Ditton is evidently a drug fiend and he insisted on giving his mate a "shot in the arm," insisting that it would do him good. When Mullen was finally released from the car his face was all scratched up and he was tired out from the battle he had had. He was allowed to continue his trip and Ditton was fined $5 and costs in the city court today on a charge of vagrancy.

Woman Given a Chance.

Tillie Miller, one of the women arrested Saturday night in a raid on rooms at 1902 South Calhoun street, was given a chance to go to her home in the country under a suspended sentence. Instructions were given to the police to pick her up the first time she is caught in a wineroom.

The raid resulted from a complaint made by William Wilson, who came from Warsaw to have a good time. He had $40 and says he met the Miller woman and Mrs. Pallock and a fellow who gave his name as Charles Smith at the Poirson chili parlors where all were drinking. They went to the Pallock woman's room and he went to sleep and when he got up his money was gone. He and Smith were fined $10 and costs each. Mrs. Pallock was also fined $10 and costs.

The Other Cases.

John Craig, arrested for assault and battery on his wife, patched up his difference and his case was continued until tomorrow. Jacob Weber drew an indefinite continuance for the same offense. He and his wife have been quarreling during the seven months of their married life and the case against him was not a strong one.

Jay Robinson, the negro who shot Peter Lapinsky at the Baltes hotel Saturday, had his case continued until April 15 under a bond of $1,000.

Ben Daniels, accused of obtaining money on a fraudulent check, waived a preliminary hearing and was held to the circuit court.

Harry Bridgeman was in court on a charge of wife desertion which was filed in June, 1910.

Cases of assault and battery against Mike Dumask and Joe Bocay were continued until April 11.

Martin Canada and Charles Randall were fined $5 and costs for drunkenness and George Gilmore and Charles Esby drew $1 and costs each.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

GREAT CROWD AT BERNE ON SUNDAY

Over 3,000 People at Each Dedicatory Service of New Mennonite Church.

ORATORIO AT NIGHT

(By Staff Representative.)

Berne, Ind., April 8.—The dedication Sunday of the splendid new Mennonite church here brought to Berne an immense crowd of people from the country and the towns along the G. R. & I. railroad, special excursion trains being run from Portland and Fort Wayne. The great church, which seats comfortably 2,000 people, was crowded forenoon, afternoon and evening, especially so in the afternoon and evening, when over 3,000 people were crowded into the great auditorium. The program of the day as outlined in The Sentinel of Saturday was carried out.

The most interesting service of the day, at least it was so to the many visitors from Fort Wayne, Decatur and Portland, was the concert given in the evening by the choir of 200 voices under the direction of Prof. O. E. Richard, of Fort Wayne. The auditorium was packed to overflowing, hundreds standing in the rear of the main floor and the big gallery. It is estimated that 3,300 people attended the evening service.

The event was the rendition of the oratorio, "The New Jerusalem," and it was most splendidly given. The soloists were Miss Catherine Egly, soprano; Miss Helena Leichty, contralto; Mr. M. E. Stauffer, tenor; Mr. G. A. Lesman, baritone, with Miss Rosa M. Lehman at the piano. In their numbers the soloists were especially fine. All are cultured singers and won praise from all who heard them. They rank in proficiency with the trained soloists of the larger cities. Miss Lehman as pianist displayed high culture and excellence.

It was said of Prof. Richard, and Fort Wayne people know it to be true, that as a musical director he could not be excelled. Under his direction the oratorio moved along without a flaw. He had trained the great chorus choir most excellently. And in the great choir loft back of the pulpit this magnificent body of singers presented a most beautiful picture.

The day in all respects was a red letter day for Berne. It passed without an incident to mar its pleasure and will long be remembered by the members of the congregation, one of the largest in the state.

In the afternoon the Sunday school was the prominent feature, aside from the address of Albert Schumaker, of Pandora, O. The children gave the program of music and recitation, and it was most excellent. The chairman at this service was J. F. Lehman, the superintendent of the great Berne Sunday school and one of the prominent business men of the town.

HOME POOR PLACE TO WORK

Best, Whenever Possible, That Man Should Be Away from the House in Daytime.

The man of the house should not be the man in the house all day long, if it can be helped. If he be an artist with a studio at home, a minister with a study at the top of the house, a physician with office hours, or any other man who is accustomed to carry on his work at home, the household accommodates itself to him, and in a sense ignores his presence. It is true that he is constantly subject to interruptions when he works at home, his wife softly opening the door to say, "The milkman has called for his bill, and cannot make change," or "Somebody has asked for you at the door. Will you not go down and see him?" or, "Do pardon me for breaking in upon your work, but Aunt Jennie has just telephoned that she is coming to luncheon. Won't you step over to the butcher's and get a porterhouse steak?"

It is not quite ideal for the man of the house to do his work at home. For his personal convenience and comfort it is preferable that he should do it elsewhere. The temptation to run in upon him, to read a letter, tell a bit of news or ask advice, is too great for the average woman to overcome.

Also, he gains something in the estimation of the family by going away in the morning and returning at night, while for himself there is the manifest advantage of a charming and restful change of scene when he steps within his front door to be stormed upon with kisses by the children and welcomed by his true comrade and partner on the road.—Woman's Home Companion.

Cholly (who is broke)—What I'm looking for is four bites, don't you know.

When Child Is Restless.

The principal cause of restlessness and sleeplessness in children is indigestion, usually brought on by unsuitable food, overfeeding or irregular meal hours.

If a child cries a great deal, is restless and loses sleep, look to the food and the time at which it is given.

Another cause of sleeplessness which is frequently overlooked is too much light in the room. It is natural to sleep in the dark, and it is particularly desirable that children should do so, for they are very sensitive to all impressions.

The tender eyes and brain need the complete rest and relaxation that darkness permits. In spring and summer, when the sun rises at five o'clock or earlier, children will waken unless the room is kept darkened.

A green blind is best for this purpose, and it is advisable to use it in the child's bedroom if nowhere else.

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA, ACNE, TETTER ETC.

While Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, etc., are troubles which affect the skin, their source is far deeper than the outside cuticle. These affections are caused by irritating humors, or uratic acid in the blood. Such impurities inflame and irritate the delicate net-work of fibrous tissue which lies just beneath the surface of the outer skin, and the inflammatory discharge thus produced is forced out through the pores and glands, and is continually kept up while the blood remains infected. This exudation causes the formation of scales and crusts so often seen in Eczema, and when they are scratched off the flesh is left raw and more susceptible to other infection. It can very readily be seen then that to produce a cure the circulation must be purified and cleansed. This S. S. S. will do. It goes down to the very bottom, removes all humors and impurities, neutralizes the excessive acids of the system and in this way removes the cause of disease. Local applications can only soothe the irritation and assist in keeping the skin clean; they never produce a cure because such treatment does not reach the blood. S. S. S. restores to the thin, acrid blood all its lost properties, makes it pure and rich and enables it to nourish the skin and keep it soft, smooth and healthy. Why Not Laboratory Tests for Street Paving Material?

With Fort Wayne about to begin work upon its annual street paving program, embracing in the present instance, as for several years past, a very extensive addition to the city's splendid network of improved street, just now would seem to be a most excellent time to inaugurate and insist upon laboratory tests of the material which is to go into the new work of street paving.

Few of the factors that go to make up the sum total of modern city improvement are more important than paved streets, and perhaps none of them represent so great an outlay of cash as does the transformation of the old-time dirt street of village days into the inviting, healthful and comfortable paved thoroughfare. It is expense, too, that is borne for the most part by owners of property abutting the improvement and that comes in the form of direct assessment that, though often a burden, is generally cheerfully borne because it affords a tangible, definite return for the money expended.

Clearly the property-owner who is paying an assessment for street paving is entitled to the very best possible equivalent for his money, in quality as well as in quantity. The average property-owner is not a paving expert. He is not well informed either upon the quality of materials or upon the manner in which the work is being done. He depends upon the city authorities to see that he is getting a square deal. And however well-informed may be the inspectors who pass upon the paving work as it is being done, and upon the job as a whole after it is completed, and however closely and assidously and honestly they apply themselves to the task, they can scarcely be absolutely certain that materials used are entirely up to grade without the positive results disclosed by a scientific test in the laboratory of a qualified expert. Appearances are sometimes deceptive here as elsewhere.

With modern methods of scientific research and practice, it is possible to ascertain precisely the quality of the material which it is proposed to use, and exactly what result may be expected from its use before an ounce of it goes into street-making. As is inevitable occasionally without this certainty, Fort Wayne has had some deplorable and expensive experiments with bad street paving. Much of it has had to be replaced long before it should have begun to seriously show the effects of wear. There have been instances where workmen found it possible to remove concreting with practically no application of the pick, so great had been the disintegration, due either to faulty material or failure to make the proper mixture, or unskilled installation. The latter two contingencies, of course, are clearly matters of inspection. The first and more important—that of quality of material—is one against which the laboratory test offers the only adequate protection, and there are few things more expensive to experiment with than street paving. There ought to be absolute certainty regarding the quality of material that goes into it, as well as the manner in which the work is performed.

"INDUSTRIAL WORKERS."

(Indianapolis News.)

The Industrial Workers of the World and that for which the organization stands, are in as bad repute in the west as it was in the east during the strike of the textile mill workers at Lawrence. An unusual story comes from San Diego, Cal. There, nearly one hundred members of the organization, all of whom admitted they were anarchists, knelt on the ground and kissed the folds of an American flag. The ceremony was forced. San Diego has had considerable trouble with plaza malcontents—men classified neither with socialists nor with any labor union. When the Industrial Workers' strike at Lawrence assumed alarming alarming proportions the trouble increased in San Diego. The result was that the city decided to exile all who classed themselves with the Industrial Workers. Forty-five deputy constables and a large body of armed citizens escorted the party to a point near the Mexican border. There an American flag was displayed and saluted. Then, to the rhythm of the "Star-Spangled Banner," the procession moved to the line.

Dispatches from British Columbia and various points in the state of Washington, where the Industrial Workers of the World have been operating, show that the organization is not having success with its "revolution." On various railroads, but particularly on the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern, the agitators have endeavored to tie up construction work. The methods used in the west are similar to those employed at Lawrence. As in the east, the socialists and the labor unions are arrayed against the Industrial Workers.

As a protest against conditions that are unjust socialism goes far enough. The Industrial Workers go even farther and demand that everything shall be taken over for their own class benefit. What Milwaukee did with the ballot, San Diego did with armed constables. Although it was ostensibly against socialism that Milwaukee voted, it was really the tendency toward irreverence for the nation that was most feared. Patriotism doubtless called out the large vote, and it was the unpatriotic—the anarchistic—attitude of the Industrial Workers made manifest openly that caused San Diego to deport the trouble breeders. It is also genuine patriotism on the part of labor unions and conservative socialists that has prompted the repudiation by these bodies of all that the Industrial Workers of the World and similar movements advocate.

PRICE OF THE RIVER BANKS NOW AND LATER.

Editor of The Sentinel:—The undersigned First warder attended the council meeting at which the bond issue was discussed by one LaTourette, of whom I had never heard before. Since then I have learned that he owns several houses and lots in Lakeside and sells cigars made by a single operative who, for economy's sake—there could hardly be any other—lives in Huntertown. Mr. Cigarmaker in Huntertown makes the smokers and Mr. LaTourette of Lakeside peddles them around. The Lakesider is said to be a thrifty gentleman who acts as his own cellar digger, own mason, own carpenter, own painter, etc., whenever he builds a new house for rent and so he is getting rich in real estate that pays him well.

But at that, he is strictly within his own rights. He need not give employment to others if he don't want to. I don't hold that against him, but when you find an obstructionist to the public welfare, one can't help wondering what sort of a man it is that so lacks public spirit and love of development.

Mr. LaTourette loves applause. He repeated in that council speech that he thought the river banks would not run away and if there was any danger, the park board could "can" the banks—there were plenty of cans on the spot, he said, to do it with. This raised the usual hearty laugh among his crowd in spite of the rust on the joke and the confession that the banks are littered with rubbish—apparently not offensive to his eye or nose.

But Mr. LaTourette would not deserve so much space at your hands, Mr. Editor, if he had not made another statement to which every loyal citizen should take quick exception. "The banks will be there next year," he declared in arguing for a delay of a year until the legislature could be induced to pass a law for a vote on such propositions, "and they will be cheaper then than now, instead of dearer, as the bond issue supporters say. I wouldn't be surprised if they could be bought next year for half what they are held at now."

Mr. LaTourette is no friend of Fort Wayne. He says that property in the heart of a growing city may be bought next year for half what it will cost now. Also, Mr. LaTourette is insincere. He knows better now and knew better when he assailed the prosperity of the city in his speech. Will the people of Fort Wayne follow such leaders? They are a plague to any town.

BLEAT OF THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER

PRETTY rough of that Boston woman who said that most women are scatter-brained," remarked the Regular Fellow. "Do you think they are?"

"Sure. Each is always giving somebody a piece of her mind," answered the Innocent Bystander. "After years of distributing these mental souvenirs a woman's brain is liable to be pretty well scattered. That's one thing that most women are generous about, giving small instalments of their minds to those they think most need the present. They keep on announcing they're just going to give somebody a piece of their minds long after it's all gone.

"Nevertheless, I think this woman who said her sex was scatter-brained, with minds flying off at a tangent, was a bit too exacting. She said that if you speak to a woman, ask her advice about something and then sit back, she may stick to the subject for two or three sentences and then change the subject because she can't think.

"Well, what of it? Who wants them to think? What encourages women to think? Men? I ask it. Did you ever see large flocks of the masculine bipeds of the human species galloping after and flocking a mental giantess? Now, don't dodge by saying you never saw a mental giantess. Even the Boston woman admitted that one-tenth of the women were exempt from the solid ivory class.

"No. You never saw them fighting to sit near her and harken to the pearls of wisdom as she strung them—the pearls, that is, not the listeners. You never saw men trying to crowd onto the same sofa with her or listen spellbound or discuss matters with her. Nix. Her mental equal of the he species would rather discuss the matter with some other man, and her brain inferior is afraid to talk to her for fear of being inundated in heavy thoughts.

"But do they chase after the chicken that can twitter and look pretty, the squab who has stacks of beautiful hair and makes those hypnotic eyes, the broiler who has the figure and the style, the debutante who can play or sing or dance, or the beautiful doll with a head solid as granite who can be pretty, smile, laugh on a guess at the right time, twitter nothings, snuggle, giggle, make eyes, dress fetchingly, coo, goo, purr, sit silent as though listening, without understanding a word, hold hands—kiss? Ah! They can't provide 'em fast enough."

"Aw, hire a hall!" interrupted the Regular Fellow. "Don't women's brains win admirers?"

"Brains are not win deep," said the Innocent Bystander.

Home Testimony Convinces

FORT WAYNE, IND., T. J. T. Cummings, 607 E. Washington St., writes us:

"For two years I was troubled with weakness of the kidneys and bladder. My back ached and the kidney action was too frequent. I became nervous and dizzy and specks would float before my eyes. Although I had been taking medicine for this trouble I was fast getting worse, until one day I took some of Foley Kidney Pills and they helped me wonderfully. After a little they effected a complete cure, leaving my kidneys in a healthy, normal condition, and all nervousness, dizziness and backaches have disappeared. Foley Kidney Pills completely rid me of all my former trouble and I gladly recommend them to anyone in need of a good kidney medicine."

Kidney and bladder diseases are so serious in effect, and if not checked, so dangerous in results, that any one so afflicted wants to be sure that the medicine they take is just the RIGHT MEDICINE to EFFECT A CURE. OUR HOPE IS IN THE RISEN LORD

Empty Tomb is Proof of the Eternal Life Beyond the Grave.

SAYS DR. ZARTMAN

The Sunday morning sermon of Rev. Allen K. Zartman, D. D., the pastor, at the Grace Reformed church, was in the nature of an Easter meditation. The service was largely attended and the choir rendered a musical program which was characterized by the Easter spirit. Dr. Zartman used the text, "Woman, Why Weepest Thou?" The words were those of the Christ, spoken to Mary Magdalene after his crucifixion and death and after his body had been laid in the grave.

With other women, Mary Magdalene has visited the tomb of the saviour to anoint the body with spices. They found the stone rolled away and the tomb empty. In their surprise and sorrow all of the women returned to the city except Mary Magdalene. She remained. Dr. Zartman told the story interestingly and forcibly and then, in part, spoke as follows:

"Though heartbroken and distressed Mary Magdalene was courageous and fearless. She decided upon making a search for the missing body and of ascertaining the truth. As she turned back from the tomb Christ appeared to her. He spoke to her, but she failed to recognize the voice. It was not until he addressed her in a very familiar way that she knew it was the risen Lord.

"'Woman why weepest thou?' The night of sorrow and of weeping is past. The light of the Easter sun has broken through the dark cloud that had settled upon Calvary and upon all Jerusalem. It was the morning of the first day of the week and it was the dawn of a new day for the world. The mighty Saviour, the Son of God, had triumphed over the enemy, over darkness, over sin, over death and over the grave.

"The empty tomb in the garden is proof of the risen Lord. But the living, loving, saving Christ of today is greater proof of his triumph over death and the grave. The power of his resurrection is the dynamic, acting, uplifting power in the world today. The risen, living Christ wields his scepter of power among the nations of the world, and he rides in triumph over land and sea. The glorious Easter dawn is the sure harbinger of the world's millennium of the Prince of Peace, and the harbinger of the coming of his kingdom.

"The empty grave is the proof of our resurrection and of the life eternal. The risen Christ is now our ascended Lord, who has gone into the heavens to prepare a place for his own. Woman why weepest thou? In the 'Home Eternal' a happy welcome awaits every longing and home-sick child of God. 'Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.'"

Just a plain old-fashioned cracker, to be sure—and still they are quite distinctive.

In taste—in crispness—in cleanliness they are just a bit better than the ordinary crackers.

UNITED EFFORT IN GOOD WORK

Lutheran Young People of Fort Wayne Banded Together in City League.

ELEVEN SOCIETIES

The Fort Wayne Lutheran City league, which gives its first annual entertainment on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week at Odeon hall, presenting the military drama, "From Sumter to Appomattox," is not yet two years old. The first movement for its organization, a uniting of the Walther leagues of the various German Lutheran churches of the city, was in June of 1910. It was not until the 10th of September following, however, that the permanent organization was formed by the adoption of a constitution. The first officers were:

President—Theodore Miller.
Vice President—Oscar Bender.
Secretary—Helen Wermuth.
Treasurer—Christian Ulmer.

The societies forming the united league, however, are much older. Some of them date their organization back to 1893 and 1894. It is composed of both the young men and the young ladies societies of the churches represented and now, in membership, it is perhaps the strongest young people's church organization in the city. The present officers are:

President—Oscar Bender.
Vice President—Edmund Wynekin.
Secretary—Clara Heine.
Treasurer—Henry G. Pfeiffer.
Executive Board—F. C. Brase, Robt. Wolf, Otto Seigrist, Carl Weigman, Ed Eicks, Alma Kaiser, Emma Schmidt, Hulda Keller, Margaret Dorn, Emma Schmidt, Hilda Spiegel.
Hospice Committee—H. G. Pfeiffer, Edmund Wynekin, Margaret Dorn.
Entertainment Committee—F. C. Brase, Ed Eicks, Hilda Spiegel.

Eleven Societies in League.

There are now eleven societies in the city league. Four of the Lutheran congregations have both young men and young ladies societies. In each of the other three the young people unite in a single society, composed of both young ladies and young gentlemen. This is the case with the Emanuel, the Redeemer and the Zion churches. The presidents and secretaries of the various societies are as follows:

St. Paul Young Ladies—President, Clara Heine; secretary, Martina Miller.
Emmaus Young Ladies—President, Ida Diekmeyer; secretary, Julia Breimeyer.
Concordia Young Ladies—President, Olivia Wyneken; secretary, Clara Honcick.
Trinity Young Ladies—President, Lillian Thomma; secretary, Edna Brinkroeger.
Concordia Young Men—President, C. J. Ulmer; secretary, Albert Geye.
Trinity Young Men—President, Otto Len; secretary, Otto Buechner.
Emmaus Young Men — President, Prof. H. Konou; secretary, Paul Hoppe.
St. Paul Young Men—President, Rev. Paul Miller; secretary, Lester Baade.
Emanuel Young People—President, Rev. William Moll; secretary, Linda Kayser.
Redeemer Young People—President, Arthur Meyers; secretary, Anna Vonderau.
Zion Young People—President, Emma Schmidt; secretary, Mina Bengs.

The purpose of the different organizations is the promotion of religious work, the carrying on of charity, the cultivation of sociability among the young people, and helping in every way possible the advancement of the church. The purpose of the city league is the union of effort in the accomplishment of all these ends. And in the history of the league so far it has been found that this is helpful not only to the church in general, but to the individual societies as well.

The different societies and the city league are members of the National Walther league, which has organizations in the cities all over the United States.

Style that stays stylish

YOU young fellows who know and like the smart distinction of style in the clothes we sell, can best understand why we say so much about quality.

You want style; but what's the good of style that doesn't stay stylish? Do you know what it is that keeps these clothes looking well, even after a whole season's wear? It's the most important thing to know about clothes.

All-wool fabrics first; there are plenty of clothes that are not all wool. Scientific shrinking by cold water; a process that cotton mixtures can't stand. The best tailoring; skilled hands shaping the garment, not just sewing seams together.

SUPERB MUSIC ON EASTER DAY

The Impressive Program Given Sunday at First Presbyterian Church.

IT WILL BE REPEATED

What was undoubtedly the best rendered and most enjoyed Easter music ever heard at the First Presbyterian church was given yesterday, both morning and evening, by a double quartet of Fort Wayne's finest singers. The eight powerful voices produced as great a volume as is usually heard from large chorus choirs, with the added finish that is possible only with singers of experience and hours of united practice.

Dudley Buck's Festival Te deum was the feature anthem of the morning service. This is probably the most difficult of all the music written to the words of the Te Deum. It was given with smoothness and expression that was inspiring to the worshipers.

The famous solo from Handel's Messiah, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," was appropriately sung after the Easter sermon. In this solo Miss Agnes Stemen proved her worth as an interpreter of oratorio by her expressive rendition of the work.

The evening service was almost entirely given over to music. Three beautiful anthems by the double quartet, one by the regular quartet, two organ numbers, one the "Hallelujah Chorus" from the Messiah, and a duet were given at this service. The duet, "Heaven Unfolds Its Portals Wide," was composed by John B. Archer, the church organist and choir director. Mr. Archer is more than locally famous as a composer of modern church music. Last Christmas time the largest part of the finest Christmas music ever given at the First church was Mr. Archer's own. His work may be noted for its sweetness and ability to appeal to all listeners. The Easter duet was perfectly sung by Mr. D. Ferd Urbahns and Miss Stemen.

At the request of many listeners the Easter program will be repeated at the First church next Sunday evening.

UMPIRE CLEARY HAS JOB.

South Bend, Ind., April 8.—President Carson, of the Central league, has been informed of the signing of Arthur Cleary as umpire of the New York State league in a letter from the former Central league man. Cleary officiated in the Carson circuit last year, coming to this league from the Central association. He is a young man and seems to be capable but several decisions of the "bonehead" variety gave the owners and managers a reasonable objection to his retention.

LIGHT KEEPER PROVED A HERO

Almost Starved and Sleepless Kept Light and Horn Going.

SAVED BY A SKIPPER

South Norwalk, Conn., April 8.—A story of privation and heroism was revealed recently when an oyster steamer, out of her course in quest of boundary stakes, carried away by the winter's ice, ventured within hailing distance of Norwalk light.

"Ahoy, there! Got anything to eat you can spare?" came a voice. The voice was that of Keeper William T. Locke, and back of the quiver in the voice was a tale of desertion and of eighteen days of constant attendance upon light and fog horn, day and night, with little or no sleep, and provisions down to potatoes and a few canned articles which had to be eaten as opened because of no opportunity to cook.

Captain Stevens, despite the high sea that was running, made a landing on the lee side of the light. When the most active of the crew climbed up a knotted rope, it being too rough to approach the light and ascend by the ladder at the side, he found a gaunt but thankful man. Keeper Locke, from a stalwart man of 180 pounds, had gone down to 160.

After the sailor, up the rope, came some coffee and some fresh provisions, and when these had been prepared and disposed of, Keeper Locke told of his vigil of nearly three weeks without help.

Friday, March 1, his assistant, George E. Longborough, went ashore with the monthly report and to secure provisions. The light is several miles out in Long Island sound at the westerly end of Green's reef, dangerous rocks that extend from Smith's island, and is surrounded by rocks which make approach dangerous, if not impossible. It is only these monthly trips ashore that keep the attendants in touch with the mainland and the world. Oftentimes a change in the weather prevents a return to the light in the little gasoline dory that is used for the trip.

What happened to Loughborough is not known, but he did not come back and all the duties fell upon Keeper Locke. If the weather is fair this means only attendance upon the light throughout the night and such time in the day as is necessary to clean and fill the light and do general things, but when the weather is foggy or bad it means constant attendance upon the light during the night and at the gas engine which runs the fog horn as well, the latter duty continuing both night and day under these conditions.

An exceptionally bad spell of weather followed Loughborough's departure. Fog and storms kept Locke busy for days in a stretch, during which his head never touched a pillow. During lulls he would anxiously scan the shore with his glass for a sign of his assistant. On the night of the 8th came the worst gale in Keeper Locke's experience of twenty years in the service. It came out of the southwest, and the seas broke solid over the light clear up to the living apartments. Everything loose on the platform was swept away, while great rocks from the protecting rip-rap around the base of the light were tossed about like marbles. They struck the cylinder of the light, and the massive structure shook like a frame building. These rocks filled up the two openings left at the side of the light for the approach of small boats, making it almost impossible now to get near the cylinder of the light.

During this ordeal both light and horn were needed to keep passing craft and sound steamers, with hundreds on board from running on the treacherous reef. During the present week the weather abated, and several parties managed to make the light, but owing to the department rule that no one can remain at the light over night, no help has yet reached the deserted keeper.

Two years ago John K. Kiarkson, then keeper of this light, left Lenny Loughborough, brother of the missing assistant, and set out in the little launch for Rowayton to get supplies. Kiarkson got his own government pay order from the mail and that of his assistant and then went on a debauch and forged the name of Loughborough to the other order, for which subsequently he went to prison.

In the meanwhile continued fogs kept Loughborough at his task day and night until he was physically worn out and almost starved. One night the light wavered strangely, and the department cutter hastened out to it to find Loughborough unconscious at the side of his engines. Loughborough was granted a rest period and promised a keepership, but he never recovered to enjoy it. He died at Narragansett pier last fall, an object of charity.

Norwalk light is known as a hoodoo, and it is almost impossible to get a keeper to stay on it. An engineer working on it when it was being built, ten years ago, fell and fractured his ankle, and complications ensuing, he lost his leg. A few months later a boat carrying five workmen ashore capsized and four of them were drowned. Although a well equipped light it has more changes of keepers than have any two lights along the coast.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

FURTHER WARNING ABOUT FASTING.

The editor of Good Health warns against fasting without the advice of a physician. He says that whether one eats or not he must consume a certain amount of matter to supply heat and energy and that the faster is in reality gnawing his own bones and that the kidneys are congested with an excess of waste which they fail to eliminate. He would advise special diets rather than fasting, though admitting that short fasts are beneficial in certain cases. Dr. Bassler, a stomach specialist, in the Cyclopedia and Bulletin of Medicine, aims to show that Upton Sinclair's advice on fasting is bad, mentioning a case in which serious injury resulted. Dr. Robinson, editor of the Critic and Guide, has also pointed out some dangers of fasting. Fasting, like every other remedy, has its limitations and its dangers, and no two cases require the same treatment. Sinclair and other advocates of fasting have advised supervision by a physician in all cases. Several cases of serious injury from prolonged fasting have come under my observation, suggesting the advisability of the same caution that is requisite in the application of any other remedy.

HERMIT AND WIFE TAKE A FURLOUGH

Will Live Apart Five Years and Then Reunite or Divorce.

Grand Junction, Col., April 8.—John Otto, "hermit of the hills," superintendent of the Colorado National Monument park, poet, dreamer and trail builder, has the newest solution for matrimonial tangles. It is the "matrimonial furlough." A matrimonial furlough is the reverse of the "Trial Marriage." Otto's advice to rasping couples is to take five years before you part. He has evolved his theory out of his own experience in trying to steer his own craft.

Otto came down from the hills driving his five pack burros before him, and announced that Mrs. Otto and he had accepted the furlough theory and that Mrs. Otto was now practically trying it out. She had gone to her home near Boston some weeks ago.

The marriage of Hermit John Otto and Miss Beatrice Farnham, an artist of Indian life, was a great event in the inter-mountain west last July. They had met after becoming acquainted through a correspondence that resulted from Miss Farnham reading one of Otto's out-door articles in an eastern magazine. Otto is a passionate lover of the wild, and in her work in the west Miss Farnham also had fallen victim to the lure of the desert and the hills.

Wide publicity attended their marriage on July 4. It was first planned by Otto to have the wedding take place on top of the gigantic Independence monument, a remarkable spar of sandstone which stands out by itself in the Monument canyon and rears its knobby head 548 feet into the air. For days prior to the ceremony John laboriously climbed the shaft, setting great iron spikes into its rocky side every ten inches, in order that his bride and the minister might make the ascent in safety. But when the day came the minister got cold feet. So the wedding took place at the foot of the monument.

The couple settled down to housekeeping in John's log cabin up among the pines. For a honeymoon trip they saddled their ponies and loaded their burros and took a long trip into the Uintah Indian reservation.

They planned to live the perfect life. "But it didn't work out," said John. "So we determined that we should both go on a matrimonial furlough. We don't believe in divorce, yet I know that you can't hold a woman unless she believes that she is perfectly free. A woman shouldn't be bound except by the fetters of love." My life was in the hills and canyons. She was wrapped up in art. Art and canyons don't mix. The furlough will last for five years. At the end of that time we will either reunite or one of us will secure a divorce. I want freedom of the range, she wants the freedom of an artistic life.

"Ive's placed a black band around the neck of each of the burros and will leave it there for four days. Then I will burn the ribbons and scatter the ashes to the four winds of heaven. With that Beatrice Farnham will be out of my life."

EVERY MOVE CREATES SOUND

Scientific Fact Not Known to All—Acuteness of Hearing Among the Lower Animals.

It is very difficult to make some persons believe that nothing can move without making a sound, although it may seem to be absolute silence to them. Everything that moves disturbs the air around it and sets up a kind of wave motion that spreads through the atmosphere in all directions. When these wave motions are strong enough a sound is heard. That nothing is heard is no evidence that there is no sound, for other living things may hear what men cannot.

The motion that is started in the air when anything vibrates or moves suddenly has often been compared to the motion of the surface of still water when we drop a pebble into a pond. But there is this great difference. The eye can see the wave made by the smallest glass bead you can find, but the ear is not nearly so sensitive, and unless the waves are pretty high in the atmosphere the human ear cannot detect them as sound.

The lower animals and birds have much better ears than human beings. A dog will prick up its ears at the sound of its master's voice, or a faint whistle, when it is an astonishing distance off. A man in Baltimore put his head out of the window and called his dog Jack, which he thought was chasing cats in the grounds of the blind asylum opposite.

The dog was sitting on the steps of a friend's house with the man's daughter, nearly half a mile away, and instantly jumped up and tore off home. It had heard that call.

A deer has been known to look up at the sound of a footstep that was still half a mile away in the woods.

David—Scroggy.

While informality characterized the wedding of Miss Marie Scroggy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Scroggy, to Mr. Howard Jamison David, which took place at noon today at the home of the bride, there were nevertheless very pretty arrangements of pink azaleas and roses with ferns and beautiful music to make the scene an appropriate one for a young and charming bride. Rev. C. Claude Travis officiated at the ceremony, which took place at the noon hour with only immediate relatives present to witness it. Miss Emma Alringer played Liszt's "Liebesstraum" as the bride and groom took their places in the parlor, where pink shaded lights, with plumosus entwining them and pots of pink azaleas made a pretty decoration. The bride wore a part of her traveling suit, a Scotch mixture of gobelin blue, black and white, with a blouse of Irish lace and a corsage bouquet of stylish design composed of orchids, pink sweetpeas and violets, mingled with stiff loops of gobelin blue velvet ribbon. When she left on her wedding journey the bride wore a blouse of embroidered marquisette made over silk to match her suit and a large blue Panama hat trimmed with an ostrich plume of two colors, blue and pink, and a heavy lace band. The wedding breakfast was served immediately after congratulations had been received by the bride and groom. The table was trimmed with garlands of smilax and a basket of Killarney roses and ferns. The place cards were novelties and contained the message "just married." The wedding guests included Mrs. S. C. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. George Scroggy and Miss Della Pence, of Frankfort. This afternoon the bride and groom left for a trip to Washington, Philadelphia and New York and will be at home in Syracuse, N. Y., after the first of May. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. David, of Moscow, Idaho. He was graduated from the University of Idaho and is a member of Phi Delta Theta. Mr. David represents the Fort Wayne Electric works. The bride is an attractive young woman of sweet manner who has made many friends in the few years she has lived in Fort Wayne. THE 1912 JUMPER WAIST.

By Mrs. Jane Ford.

4 SIZES 32 TO 42 BUST

IT will be a welcome surprise to the majority of women to know that there is a decided tendency to revive the once popular jumper models, and that there are a number of these waists seen among the new spring frocks and blouses. Designers have brought them up to date by eliminating the shoulder seams and sewed in sleeves, and by giving them to us in one piece. This charming design has a pretty fulness at the front given by three narrow tucks over each shoulder, which are stitched yoke depth. At the waist line it may be joined to a skirt to form a costume, or finished with a circular fitted peplum, which latter is provided for by the pattern.

These waists are lovely developed in chiffon, marquisette or sheer novelty goods, and worn over high neck, long sleeve blouse of silk. Gingham, linen and other tub materials made in this style will be worn over sheer lawn or batiste waists. A very pretty dark brown linen frock intended for street wear during the warm weather had a blouse of ecru batiste embroidered with brown polka dots that matched in color the dress linen. To copy this waist for the average woman requires two yards of twenty-seven inch goods.

Stir and cook for three minutes, then turn out on a hot platter.

Almond Cream Soup.

Clean and disjoint a fowl, cut in the soup kettle with five pints of water, cover and simmer very gently for three hours. Strain off the stock, set aside to chill. Remove all fat and bones and put the white meat through the food chopper, using the finest cutter. Blanch one cupful of almonds and pass them through the same cutter. Remove all fat from the stock and put it on in a clean saucepan with two cupfuls of fine crumbs (not crust), one third of a cupful of chopped celery, one tablespoonful of chopped carrot and onion, one half of a bay leaf, two cloves, a bit of cinnamon, one sprig of parsley, one scant teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of white pepper. Simmer for one hour, then rub through a sieve. Return to the fire with the prepared chicken and almonds and three cupfuls of cream. Add seasoning to taste. When almost at the boiling point add one tablespoonful of butter rubbed to a paste with one tablespoonful of flour. Stir gently until dissolved then boil slowly for five minutes. Rub through a fine sieve, reheat and serve. This is a very delicious soup and well repays the time spent in making it.

EASTER HATS == DEHM'S

The three; "Easter," "Hats," "Dehm's;" fit together naturally. The greatest millinery day of the year and the greatest name in millinery in Northern Indiana—a combination interesting to every woman.

We are prepared to show you fetching models for Miss or Matron, worked out in the true Dehm quality way with the satisfying Dehm exclusiveness—no extra charge for French or Domestic crown tips (which, by the way, are more often bought by the dozen.)

Chief among our showing are Knox Hats for Ladies, aristocrats of the hat world. All Knox Hats, down to the lowest prices, are made up in braids designed for and controlled exclusively by Knox. Milaus, Hemps, Kofu, Verona and other novelty braids that cannot be copied or robbed of their individuality.

Dehm Children's Hats, when you select one or more charming models from a score of more Dehm creations, your anticipation of smart exclusiveness is never given a dash of cold water by meeting the same hat at every turn.

Others try to copy Dehm Models but Dehm hats are unimitatable.

All this and much more awaits you here now. You are welcome to go through all the store—to try on and to admire. We ask only that you do not miss the showing.

FANTASTIC DRAPERIES.

The present craze for lace has one defect of its qualities, and nothing can be more ridiculous than when incoherent, misplaced draperies of the fabric are hung about us in irrelevant panier and draperies. The mere man is to be pardoned if he thinks, as he not infrequently does, that we have come undone and have bits of us hanging loose. Narrow draperies slung from one shoulder (the lop-sided drapery is at best a dangerous joy), hung from the waist, tied round the knee or trailing down the back, may by some freak become fashionable and no longer appear ludicrous in the sight of our obedient eyes, but they cannot cease to be ugly.

A SHORT LECTURE ON DOMESTIC ECONOMY

In Two Chapters

I

To the man who pays the bills

Naturally you want to save at every possible corner when you can do so without inconvenience or sacrifice. You can save money by having your wife buy Perfection Bread instead of baking. Many people have proved this to their own satisfaction. You can easily figure it up yourself if you care to.

II

To the woman who does the work

Why do any more work than necessary to the health and happiness of your family? It is NOT necessary to bake bread. For it has been demonstrated that Perfection Bread is not only as good to eat as the best home made, but is far more healthful than most home-made bread.

MORAL—The moral of this story is so obvious that we need do no more than mention the fact that there is one: EAT PERFECTION BREAD.

SHE HAS SMOKED FOR MANY YEARS

Mrs. Brandon Sweeney at Age of 114 Years Still "Hits" Clay Pipe.

SAYS IT'S HEALTHFUL

Wheeling, W. Va., April 8.—If you ever chanced to be hunting in Belmont county, Ohio, just across the river from this city, you must have run across Ivan Brandon, who is eighty-three years old. And if spry old Ivan happened to have something in his game bag, as he almost certainly would, he might tell you:

"I'm going home and have mother cook that."

Ivan's mother is 114 years old, and at the little home at Pipe Creek, where she lives with Ivan and his wife, who is seventy, she works about the house and garden like a woman of forty. She is Mrs. Sarah Brandon-Sweeney, as she has outlived two husbands.

"If it hadn't been for tobacco I'd 'a been dead long ago," says Mrs. Brandon-Sweeney.

She has been smoking an old clay pipe for eighty years, using crude tobacco as it comes from her little Ohio farm; but she is not smoking as much now as she once did—only once a day now. She has not had a day's illness in half a century. Occasionally she walks to Businessburg, three miles away, for household supplies.

Mrs. Brandon-Sweeney was born in the county in which she still lives when the Indians still swarmed over this section. Brandon, her first husband, to whom she bore twenty-two children, died in 1856. Then she was married to Sweeney, who brought eleven children with him. Her first child was born when she was fourteen years old. She had sixteen sons inthe union army in the civil war. One died in Andersonville prison; the others survived the war. In the war department at Washington hangs a photograph of the old woman with the inscription "The mother of the Civil war." Her husband and her oldest son fought in the Mexican war.

Senator Atlee Pomerene of Ohio and Congressman Francis will try to get a bill passed giving her a pension of $100 a month.

Mrs. Brandon-Sweeney says she is not able to tell the number of her grandchildren, great-grandchildren, great-great-grandchildren and great-great-great-grandchildren scattered throughout the states of Ohio and West Virginia and other parts of the world.

Ivan Brandon himself has nine children and isa great-great-grandfather. All but one of his children are married. He attributes his robust health at eighty-three to whisky and tobacco.

The family of three live on a three-acre farm. Ivan gets a pension of $17 a month, but his main business is hunting. He is a sure shot and never comes home empty-handed. He knows just where to find the game. There are times when the pursuit of game keeps him out for three and four days, during which time he is not out of his clothes.

Neither Ivan nor his mother ever went to school and they cannot read a line, yet Ivan is a remarkably interesting talker, having dates and history fixed firmly in his mind. He can quote the Bible verbatim for hours, having a wonderfully retentive memory. He takes a keen interest in politics, and after hearing an address is able to repeat it almost word for word.

Ivan believes he will live at least as long as his mother lived, and that she will still be on earth when he has reached the century mark.

AVOIDABLE ILLS DECIMATE YOUNG

Dr. Wood, of Columbia, Says 15,000,000 Children Have Ailments.

TEETH HURT MANY

St. Louis, Mo., April .—There are approximately 20,000,000 school children in the United States today, and of this number more than 15,000,000 are in need of medical attention for diseases which are prejudicial to health and progress.

These figures were given by Dr. Thomas Wood, professor of physical education at Columbia university, New York, in his address at the Southern hotel before the department of superintendence, which met in St. Louis with the National Association of Education.

"The health of the people is the most important resource any nation can have," said Dr. Wood, "and the most valuable asset in our capital of national vitality is the health of the children.

"Public education is the responsible agency of the nation for the conservation and enhancement of the child's health. If it fails in its duty, the future of the nation will depend upon an imbecile people, which must soon perish.

"To effectively promote the child's health, the school must be a sanitary and healthful place. We take it for granted that school children are healthy, but the majority of them are far from being the robust specimens that they appear.

"There are 20,000,000 school children in the United States. Of these, 400,000 suffer from organic heart trouble, 1,000,000 either have had or have now some disease of the lungs; 1,000,000 are suffering from curvature of the spine, or some other deformity that is interfering with their general health.

"More than 1,000,000 of our children are suffering from defective hearing, 5,000,000 suffering from malnutrition, 6,000,000 have enlarged tonsils, adenoids or enlarged cervial glands, 10,000,000 of them, and in many schools we have found that 98 per cent. of the children are suffering ill health because of bad teeth.

"St. Louis is to be complimented on the good health of its school children, and this is due, I believe, to a great extent, to the fact that the children have profited greatly by the system of medical examination they are subjected to here on account of the fear of spreading contagious diseases."

Philander P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, highly commended Dr. Wood's talk.

Dr. Claxton spoke on "The Need for Health Ideal in Public Education." He said in part:

"Education embraces all the agencies that go to develop the child into a perfect man or woman. Hence, all agencies, whatever their nature may be, are educational factors that have to be reckoned with if they tend to bring out the latent powers of the children.

"It is a fallacy to think that the mind should be developed at the expense of the body, and the theory has been exploded long ago. If we want a perfect man or woman, we must have physical as well as mental development.

"Only a few individuals whom we can count on the ends of our fingers, have ever attained to enviable heights in an intellectual way unless they were endowed with good physical health.

"One of the greatest factors in the moral world is good health, although we often lose sight of that fact. When the strong man goes astray he generally gets back on the right path, and when he does he has sufficient vitality to rebuild his physical being and be a man again. Not so with the weakling. When he goes wrong he seldom recovers.

"Thousands of children die annually who ought to live, and they die only because of the ignorance of their mothers, who have not learned how to care for them properly.

"There should be health inspectors for all schools, and their work should be done so thoroughly that a disease would be detected in its initial stages, when it can be most easily handled."

ELOPES ON STOLEN HORSE.

Not Only Takes Wife, But Also Five Children.

Moab, Utah, April 5.—A frontier elopement has its possibilities, its limitations and its vicissitudes. Witness the hurried departure one night of Andrew Gibson, sole survivor of the Gibson band of outlaws, and Mrs. George Hurley. No automobile or speeding train attended this elopement, but Mrs. Hurley's five children did.

Be it said that the quiet gentry of Moab would not have stirred over this elopement had it not been for the fact that Gibson chose as his steed a fine animal that belongs to Miss Melba Taylor. She didn't object to Gibson leaving town between two days, but when she learned the following morning that he had taken her horse she registered a complaint with Sheriff W. J. Bliss. The Sheriff and Marshal B. C. Clark started in pursuit of Gibson and the eloping Mrs. Hurley.

George Hurley is not so much perturbed over the hasty departure of his helpmeet as he is over the fact that she took all the children. He said to the sheriff that if she would return the oldest three children she could keep on going. The sheriff added that she would have to continue on alone, as he was determined to bring Gibson back for the indiscretion of taking another's property.

Mrs. Hurley drove a wagon out of Moab, going to Monticello, sixty miles across the desert. Gibson overtook her not far south of town and acted as escort for the rest of the way. The sheriff and marshal, equipped with fresh horses and a warrant for Gibson, are in pursuit.

Sage Tea Will Darken the Hair

Restore Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our grandmothers kept their hair dark, glossy and abundant by the use of a simple "Sage Tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of Sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect.

Nowadays we don't have to resort to old-time, tiresome methods of gathering the herbs and making the tea. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy.

This preparation gives youthful color and beauty to the hair, and is one of the best remedies you can use for dandruff, dry, feverish, itching scalp, and falling hair. Get a fifty cent bottle from your druggist today, and you will be surprised at the quick results. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. Special Agents, Meyer Bros. Co.

FOR THE MEDICAL PROFESSION

Place—St. Winifred Hospital, San Francisco.

Case—Chronic Parenchymatous Nephritis involving broken compensation, complete Anasarca and Uræmic Convulsions.

Prognosis—According to the text books, hopeless. The best physicians had failed and the condition of the patient at the end of a two years' fight for life was so extreme that it was predicted he would not live to get to this city.

The physician who was called in was Dr. L. C. Mendel, who put the patient on Fulton's Renal Compound and aided it with active measures to sustain the heart and promote the eliminations, etc.

To the intense surprise of the local physicians the patient went home and resumed business the fifth month.

The fact that a slight addition to the orthodox treatment with which it in nowise conflicts, now permits recoveries in many cases of Bright's and kidney disease that the text books declare hopeless ought to interest every physician in this country.

CENTRAL HAS NO STAR IN MAJORS

Many Men Are Playing in Big Show But None is at the Top.

FEW ARE DEVELOPED

In the nine years of its existence the Central league has never sent a man to the majors who has developed into a star of the first magnitude. Some excellent material has been sent up from the ranks but there are no Cobbs, Lajoles, Wagners, Mathewsons, Collins, Bakers or men of their ilk in the output of the present circuit.

One exception might be made in favor of Owner Bush, the rapid-fire little shortstop of the Detroit club, who passed through part of one season in the league before his education was advanced by a year with Indianapolis, but even he has never been able to bring his batting up to a point where he might be considered a great offensive player, although he is a marvel in the defensive end of the game.

Rube Marquard may also be considered an exception to this rule. He has not reached a period in his career when he can be called a performer of the first water, because he indicated in the world's series that he lacked the finish to carry him through a hard struggle, but the baseball experts generally believe that he will climb to the top this season.

Among the first men to go out of the Central league was Cliff Curtis, who went to the American association and finally reached the majors, although he was unable to stick with any club for a great length of time and has been shifted about from place to place for the last two years.

Then Cecil Ferguson was given a chance in the big show and although he held on for several years with New York without displaying winning form he was eventually sent to Boston and when an attempt was made to send him back to the minors he balked.

Probably the best prospect in the majors now is Max Carey. He is young and ambitious, has made himself a permanent home with the Pirates, and with a year or two of experience he may develop into stronger batter and a better base runner, as he has the speed and a good eye.

Another good prospect is Ed Pfeffer, who started his baseball career here and who has developed a most baffling cross fire that may take him back to the majors if he finds something good to mix with it. He has the size, strength and youth in his favor and unless a lack of ambition holds him down he may develop.

"Tex" Covington has managed to stick a couple of years with the Detroit club and this may be taken as proof of the fact that Hughey Jennings believes he will become a star. He has plenty of speed, but has been handicapped by want of control.

Among the other players who have been able to hold places after graduation from the Central are Jimmy Austin, with the Highlanders, "Runt" Walsh, with the Phillies, Alex McCarthy with the Pirates, Ewart "Dixie" Walker with Washington, Paskert with the Quakers, Stark with Brooklyn and half a dozen others, but the Central has yet to turn out a man of the right caliber for a star.

Dal Gainer can hardly be counted a Central leaguer, as he was sent here for a year of schooling and the same applies to Hank Butcher with Cleveland and men obtained and carried for a short time under option contracts have not been considered.

This is not to be wondered at as only one or two stars have been developed in the last few years and any major league club that obtains a star in two years at an expenditure of $10,000 is considered very lucky in these days of advanced baseball.

CURLEY SAYS IT'S COMIN'.

Announces That the Heavyweight Battle Will Be Fought.

Chicago, Ill., April 8.—Jack Curley has returned home and definitely stated once more that the heavyweight battle will be pulled off and that there is no doubt about it. Jack further says that Johnson will get the beating of his career when the affair comes off. Curley is so sure that "Lil Arthe" is in for a beating that he will wager $1,000 at odds of 2½ to 1 on Flynn.

The wandering promoter is not ready to tell where the bout is going to be staged. He says there are two places where boxing followers have produced $5,000 forfeits and are ready to guarantee a big "bit" for Curley, et al. Las Vegas, N. M., according to Curley, has many natural advantages which cannot be overlooked. The transportation facilities have impressed Jack and the hotel accommodations there are first-class, also, according to Curley.

Three weeks remain of the season of the Fort Wayne Bowling association's schedule and in that time there will be a hard fight fought for the individual average. Will Doehrman dropped a point last week but is still 2 points ahead of Ed Harkenrider, who is fighting for the title and 3 points better than Frank Farnan, the third man. A little spurt on the part of either second or third place man will change the complexion of the race.

However, the battle is not entirely between these three, as Tony Haas, George Harkenrider, Ot Sander, Billy Williams or Fred Schwartz might hit a few high places and land on top although exceptional form will be necessary.

The Germanias have a comfortable lead that it will be difficult to overcome and it is likely they will lead the race to the finish. The averages are as follows:

ON THE EVE OF BATTLE.

The Cubs beat Jimmy Burke's Indianapolis team 8 to 1 in the final exhibition game yesterday.

"Red" Nelson issued two passes and made a wild pitch in the game between the Browns and Cardinals. Mike Mowry hit and the Cards won an extra-session affair.

Dick Grefe caught in the game for Columbus yesterday when it stacked against the Highlanders.

Karger mixed with Umpire Cy Pfirman in the game at Terre Haute yesterday and nearly caused a riot. The Tots beat St. Paul.

HARD LUCK HITS DOOIN.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 8.—Sherwood Magee, left fielder on the National league team of this city, will be out of the game for at least a month because of a fractured bone in his right wrist. During practice he was hit by a pitched ball. Although the wrist pained him he paid no attention to the injury until yesterday, when he went to a hospital and had the X-ray put on the injured member. It was found that a bone had been fractured and the forearm was placed in splints.

SPORT EDITOR TO TRY OUT.

Sharon, Pa., April 8.—Charles (Chilly) Doyle, sporting editor of the Telegraph, will be given a try out for third base by Manager Fred Paige, of the Ohio and Pennsylvania league, and his friends who have seen him perform around the "praying corner," are confident he will make good.

JEWELL IN OUTFIELD.

Goat Anderson is playing Benny Jewell in left field during the practice season. He figures that he will hit as well and will not have the chances to hoot as many while he is in the suburbs.

COMPTON COMES BACK.

Jack Compton is coming back to the Central league for the second time. Cincinnati had him and sold him to Montreal and Montreal sold him to Louisville and Dayton bought him from the Colonels.

OLD MEN ON WAY TO JOIN THE SPRING PRACTICE SQUAD.

NEW RECRUIT IS LIKELY CATCHER

His Name is Robert Wells But He is Not the South Bend Bob.

RESUME PRACTICE

Manager Shag Shaughnessy was advised today that the unknown who played in California last season and who is to be tried out with the Fort Wayne rookies is a catcher and that his name is Robert Wells. He is not, however, the same Bob Wells who caught such good ball for South Bend a couple of years ago.

He has no record that anybody has been able to discover and only the fact that he is highly recommended by a friend who thinks he knows a ball player got him a chance on the Fort Wayne squad.

Outdoor practice was resumed at Concordia College campus this morning and will be continued until enough water runs out of League park to permit practice there. There will have to be some plumbing done before the club house will be ready, but the manager hopes to get the use of his grounds before the end of the present week.

Joe McManus, who has been living the simple life outside of Palmyra, Ill., and who didn't get a ticket until he wired for it, reported for work this morning. He was bought from the Cincinnati club and is looked upon as one of the most likely candidates for the staff.

He has been on a farm all winter and says he is in pretty fair shape to begin work and does not believe that his delay in reporting will be any sort of a handicap with him.

The coal miner will not do although a United States senator and several church dignitaries recommended him. This refers to Pitcher Danley who will have to start in class D ball and work up if he expects to make his living out of the game.

President E. W. Dickerson, of the Michigan State league, has asked Manager Shaughnessy to turn over to him any promising pitching material that is not quite ripe and Danley has been given a chance to try out with the Luddington team, of which the president's brother is manager.

Clark Carson, son of Dr. F. R. Carson, president of the Central league, will report here tomorrow and will try for an infield position. He is coming under a handicap that will probably keep him out of the Central league, even if he should show the class.

He thinks he can play baseball and Manager Shaughnessy has been chosen as the man to say whether or not he is right. If he shows any ability he will be farmed or given a chance to get another job on his own hook, as it is not likely that any team in the league would want to retain a player whose father is at the head of the organization.

Bill Clancy had a funny experience Saturday afternoon. He was playing out and chasing flies along with young Schwind, who is trying out on the local squad.

William was brought here to help keep the rookies in check and to prevent any of them from spoiling their baseball future by cutting loose of any long throws until they are a bit better seasoned.

Schwind got hold of a ball and cut it loose with all the stuff behind it that he could command. "Don't do that, young fellow. Take it slow. Throw another one or two like that and you won't be able to comb your hair with your right hand tomorrow morning."

"Ah, g'wan," was the reply. "I guess I can use me left."

WANTS AN OUTFIELDER.

Ed Smith is trying out Teetes, Thomas and Dunlap in his outfield to get a man to fill the vacancy. Kroy and Lejeune are certainties and Geier has refused to report.

IN THE SHAMROCK FOLD.

Blakey is counted on by Manager Mart Cleary to hold his own with the Shamrocks this season. He is a big fellow with lots of steam.

The players worked out yesterday at the old golf grounds, but only a little warming up was done, as the day was raw and cold.

Every opportunity is being taken by the men to work out and some of them are already in good form for the opening of the season.

Weberuss and Hines, two recruits, are both hitting the ball hard.

Chamisors' arm is giving him some trouble and he would not work with it in the cold wind.

The new uniforms will be issued next week to be worn in the games against Fort Wayne.

The schedule is being rapidly filled and games have been booked at Indianapolis, Detroit, Warsaw, Kendallville, Huntington, Auburn and Peru.

Indications point to the fact that there will be big attendance at the Shamrock dance at Turner hall Friday night.

DEFEATS DO NOT BOTHER MANAGER

Ed Smith's Men Are Not Cutting Loose and All Are Waiting.

MEN GOING SLOWLY

Notre Dame, Ind., April 8.—Two defeats suffered at the hands of Notre Dame university has brought no gloom into the Black Stockings' camp. The squad took a workout this morning and afternoon, while the varsity boys took a day off. Smith is more than pleased with the showing of his men and is figuring on taking the remainder of the series from the collegians. As soon as the pitchers begin to show real "stuff" the varsity will have a different proposition on its hands. As it is now nothing but straight balls are served to the Notre Dame batters.

A review of the two games played thus far indicates that Grand Rapids has the makings of a good ball club. With the pitchers going at proper pace it is safe to say that any prediction to the effect that the Black Stockings will land well up in the league is based on good contention. John Henry Myers is going better just now than any of the pitchers. In the last game against Notre Dame he blanked them for four consecutive innings, only two hits being made off his delivery. He is taking off weight right along by steady and consistent training. He takes a jaunt around the track before doing duty in the box.

Dave Martin has not put on any steam as yet. In the three innings he faced the collegians he had perfect control. He says this is what he wants first—the other things will come later on. Martin, besides throwing straight ones, tosses a slow curve once in a while. In the next game it is very probable that Martin will do the twirling for at least six innings. Pat Lindsay was on the job Saturday. The peppery side-wheeler showed all kinds of life on the baseball grounds. He says that he is in the best of shape and can be relied on to take his place in the box within a week. Bowman is holding himself back. A chilly wind sweeping across the campus has been a strong obstacle to good pitching, and for this reason Smith has admonished all pitchers to use their own judgment. With the exception of Meyers, who seems to be in fine fettle, the entire pitching staff is exercising discretion and taking no chances.

"Dike" Scanlon seems to be the most aggressive man on the Grand Rapids team. He has caught every inning thus far, and is getting after the "umps" quite frequently for raw decisions. In the last game against Notre Dame both Scanlon and Koehler gave the "umps" a severe bawling out for a poor decision. This spirit is gratifying to Manager Smith, who likes to see the boys displaying all the fight possible, consistent with what is proper. Bucky Holmes will, in all probability, be ready to catch the next game against the collegians.

Schmick, on first, is playing a whirlwind game. It does not take long for the first baseman to get into condition. He has no superfluous weight to dispense with. Koehler and Parker seem to work well together. Opportunity has been afforded for the pair to pull off a number of double plays, and the manner in which the plays have been executed indicates that Parker has a chance of landing the shortstop job.

THOUGHT HE HAD AN IRISH PAID

Walter Edwards, the actor, was formerly an enthusiastic devotee of the padded mitt game, and at one time in his early career was one of the best amateur boxers in this country.

He tells many interesting stories of fighters and prize fight followers. One he relates is worth chronicling. He says:

"Noms de Biff—the titles of the ring—are in just as general use today as was the case in the London period of a hundred years ago. Jewish, French and Scandinavian boxers still take Irish names ad libitum.

"One of the richest mixups of this kind came off in Milwaukee a few years ago. Racine turned out a middleweight known as young Mahoney. He quickly sprang into fame, and soon stopped every man he encountered in lightning fashion. Meanwhile, another middleweight known as Hugo Kelly, had come up in Chicago and had done nobly, ranging from coast to coast, seeking whom he might devour.

"Kelly was the more renowned of the pair, and when Mahoney's backers secured a fight at the Milwaukee club it seemed as though the real chance for an immortal reputation had been offered.

"Kelly and Mahoney!" Two good old Turkish names for fair. Kelly and Mahoney—no wonder the Irishmen turned out en masse to see the battle, and that the Milwaukee fight club, usually populated with Germans, was on this occasion jammed with men of Connaught and of Kerry.

"As the fighters came on—both in green trunks and with Irish flags for belts—there was mad applause. The boys took their corners and an old tad—a typical tad from Galway—came waddling from one of the boxes to the corner occupied by Kelly.

"'Many's the lad O'ive known be the name of Kelly,' croaked the old tad. 'Foine byes an' gra-an' fighters. Kelly, ma buchal, OI wish ye luck.'

"Kelly leaned over the ropes and shook the tad's hand. 'I much thanka you, signor,' said Kelly. 'I don do best I can. Maibe so I knocka de head off da monk in two, free round, sl signor?'

"The tad gave Kelly one look of utter horror and then went stumbling over to the other corner. 'Mahoney,' he almost sobbed, 'Mahoney, me bye, what do yez think? Thot felly be a dago. Kill the Eyetalian, Mahoney, for the sake of the ould sod.'

"Mahoney reached down and pressed the old fellow's paw reassuringly. 'Don'd you vorry poy,' he spook soothingly. 'Ven I get him by dose ropes mit, you chust vatch me soak him. I will from him de kopf ge-nock in zwie roundt already.'

"With a wail of heart broken agony and despair the tad collapsed. The bell rang and the man, known in the ring as Hugo Kelly, and Otto Jung, went bravely out to fight a red-hot draw."

BOND TO WIFE UPHELD BY COURT

Unique Missouri Case Again Up on Appeal After Error.

FOR "PUBLIC POLICY"

Springfield, Mo., April 8.—A unique legal bond, by which John P. Montgomery, of Phillipsburg, Mo., agreed to forfeit the sum of $500 to his prospective wife, Martha A. McFall, if after marriage he failed to treat her "as a good husband should," has been brought up for the second time in two years before the Springfield court of appeals.

A lawsuit won in the circuit court of Laclede county by Mrs. Montgomery against her husband and his bondsmen has been submitted to the appellate court and will be decided at the April call. The bond on which the action is based was once before held legal by this same court.

"Public policy" is the main point about which the Montgomery case revolves.

The courts hold that public polity is contravened when a man enters into a contract whereby marriage is held in contempt and its dissolution facilitated, but, on the other hand, it is strictly in keeping with public policy when a man signs a contract whereby marriage is favored and the marital relation maintained. The Montgomery contract is in the latter class.

John P. Montgomery, of near Phillipsburg, asked for the hand in marriage of Miss Martha A. McFall, 19-year-old daughter of a neighboring farmer, in November, 1907. The girl's parents objected, but Montgomery was so insistent that the court says, "It is obvious to the most casual observer that there was some strong inducement."

Agreement Wins Parents of Girl.

Montgomery finally overcame the objections of the elder McFalls in a way that is without parallel in the Missouri courts. With P. M. Montgomery, his brother, and Mrs. Margaret E. Montgomery, his mother, he entered into a contract worded as follows:

"Know all men by these presents: That I, John P. Montgomery, having agreed to and married Martha A. McFall, bind myself and also the following securities, to-wit, P. M. Montgomery and Margaret E. Montgomery, in the sum of five hundred ($500) dollars, to the effect that I will treat her, Martha A. McFall, in a good and proper manner as a husband should treat his wife, and will not maltreat nor abuse her in any manner, and if I should fail to treat her as above stated, then this obligation shall become due and payable upon myself and bondsmen, provided that the said Martha A. McFall shall conduct herself in a proper manner in every respect as the wife of the said John P. Montgomery.

"JOHN P. MONTGOMERY.
"P. M. MONTGOMERY.
"MARGARET E. MONTGOMERY.
"Done this —— day of November, 1907."

Following the consummation of these strange nuptials there was born to the couple a child who is now being supported by its mother, it is alleged, at the home of her parents.

He Quits Home After Marriage.

Soon after the marriage, it was alleged, the husband and father deserted his new home.

Mrs. Montgomery immediately took steps to see that her husband forfeited the amount of the bond under which her parents had permitted the marriage to take place. A lawsuit was prepared and filed. It came to a sudden and abrupt termination, however, when Judge L. B. Woodside, of the Laclede county circuit court, sustained a demurrer filed by the defendant. This ruling was made on the grounds that "the obligation sued upon is against public policy and is void in that it invites and encourages a separation of man and wife as a source of pecuniary profit."

Mrs. Montgomery appealed and the case was heard at the March, 1910, term of the Springfield court of appeals. After due consideration, Associate Judge Argus Cox wrote an opinion in which he declared the contract to be within the restrictions of public policy, remaining in full force and giving Mrs. Montgomery a right under the laws of Missouri to sue her husband, notwithstanding his arguments to the contrary. By Judge Cox's decision the judgment of the lower court was reversed and the case remanded for a new trial. At the second hearing in Laclede county Mrs. Montgomery was awarded judgment for $500 and costs of the prosecution.

In the second appeal the husband bases his argument on another instrument of writing by which he says his wife, for the sum of $25, signed away her rights to recover on the original bond. Mrs. Montgomery says she did not understand the import of the release when she signed it. The instrument was crudely drawn, as follows:

"Both the above named parties have been dissatisfied, and agree to separate by the said J. P. Montgomery paying to the said Martha A. Montgomery $25, and they further acknowledge that they both agree to the above contract this 2d day of December, 1907."

Fraud is charged by Mrs. Montgomery against her husband. She says she was told that the second paper was merely for the purpose of releasing Montgomery from the original bond until he could prepare a home for his family. By bringing forth witnesses from among her neighbors to swear to the same thing, the wife proved this point to the satisfaction of the court from which the case has been appealed.

Busy Chinese Hens.

It would appear that the hens of China find life more real and earnest than enjoyable, for, it is said, when not hatching out broods of their own kind, the additional and novel task of hatching fish eggs is thrust upon them. Chinese owners of hens collect fish spawn, introduce it into empty eggshells, hermetically seal them and place them under the deceived and conscientious hen. In due time the shells are removed and the spawn, now warmed into life, is emptied into a shallow pool. Here the fish which appear are nursed and guarded until strong enough to be turned into a lake or stream, and subsequently add to the edible resources of the people.

PENNSY SHOPS ON SHORT SCHEDULE

Employes Began Working Fifty Hours Per Week Today.

Between 600 and 700 Fort Wayne people were the guests Sunday afternoon of the conductors, the trainmen, the firemen and their auxiliaries between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock and inspected the new Brotherhood hall in the German-American Trust building, at the corner of Calhoun and Holman streets.

"The finest lodge room I ever saw," was the frequent expression of the visitors. The orders that have taken a lease upon the third story of the Trust building and have been at great expense in fitting it up are justified in the statement that they have the best appointed and most elaborately equipped lodge home in the state and possibly in the middle west. The floor is divided into a lodge room, ball or banquet room, two liberally proportioned anterooms, a kitchen, two large locker and paraphernalia rooms, two lavatories and other smaller rooms.

The lodge room is located in the southeast part of the floor, is 48.6x28.6 feet in dimensions and has a row of windows on two sides. The floor is covered with a heavy brussels carpet and the seats along the wall, on a slightly elevated platform about three feet wide, and the officers' seats at each end of the room and in the middle of the sides are of mahogany and handsomely upholstered in morocco. North of this big room are located lavatories and locker rooms.

The dance hall, or banquet room, as occasion may require, is 58.6 feet long and 33.6 feet wide. Yesterday it contained only the piano and rows of mahogany chairs around the wall. It has a row of windows on each side and is well provided with chandeliers for lighting by electricity. Doors open out from this room into the ante-room near the middle, the kitchen and the locker and lavatory rooms in the northeast corner.

There was no elaborate program. The Young orchestra furnished music during the reception hours and committees composed of ladies and gentlemen met the visitors at the stair hall and escorted them through the rooms. The majority of the callers passed through the several departments, sat down to listen to a musical selection for a few moments and then passed out, but some were so pleased with the hospitality and beauty of the hall that they remained during a good portion of the afternoon and at no time were there vacant seats in the lodge room.

Each of the six orders was represented on the reception committee. The male portion of the committee was the joint hall board, composed as follows: Charles T. Matott, chairman; Harry L. Stonecifer and C. M. Bushey, of the Conductors; C. M. Preble, W. E. Ferguson and T. E. Harter, of the trainmen; E. G. Ludwig, A. R. Dickey and H. O. Dermody, of the firemen. Kekionga division, No. 51, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Order of Railway Conductors, was represented by Mrs. W. A. Current, Mrs. Fred H. Davis, Mrs. A. W. Caskey, Mrs. E. T. Estry, Mrs. L. F. Lombard and Mrs. C. D. Welch. Hyacinth lodge, No. 38, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, was represented on the committee by Mrs. C. Rogers, Mrs. A. R. Downing, Mrs. F. E. Wilmore, Mrs. F. W. Grayless and Mrs. W. C. Bender. Loyal lodge, No. 85, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, was represented by Mrs. Mary Carpenter, Mrs. Clara Koch, Mrs. Winnie Obenchain, Mrs. Addie Bradley and Mrs. Hettie Haddox.

HOMEMADE ICE FOR DANCERS.

New Ice Machine Takes Part in Tuesday's Blowout.

The ices and ice cream served by the ladies at the first annual ball to be given in the fourth story of the big Broadway building of the Fort Wayne Electric works for the benefit association's emergency fund Tuesday night will be kept in proper condition with ice manufactured at the plant by the Audiffren ice making machines. There has been other ice manufactured there by these machines, but this will be the first time any of it has been used in a commercial sense. The annual ball is going to be the grand event its projectors intended it should be. Tickets are in great demand and by the time the last one has been disposed of something like 3,000 will be the number out. Saturday one of the city papers made the statement that two persons would be admitted on one ticket, which was an error. The admission is 25 cents for adults and children twelve or thirteen years free. The factory employes back of this dance say they propose to make it a perfectly respectable affair. There will be no "bunny hug," "turkey trot" or "polar bear" dances on the floor and any attempt to dance them will be met by the request of the parties to quit or leave the hall. "We want to take our wives and children to this ball and do not want to have them insulted by any immodest dancing," said one of the committeemen. The Electro-Technic band, which is to furnish the music, will have twenty-four instruments employed on this occasion.

WILL HAVE ANNUAL BALL.

O. R. C. Ladies Arrange for Brilliant Event.

Mrs. E. O. Bonter, Mrs. C. T. Matott, Mrs. L. F. Lombard and Mrs. W. H. Grout, who comprise the committee on arrangements for the annual ball and pedro party of Kekionga division, No. 51, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Order of Railway Conductors, have completed the work of arrangements for the event and are congratulating themselves upon the prospects of the finest dance the auxiliary ever gave, which is saying a great deal, for these affairs in the past were among the most brilliant of the season in which they were given. The grand march will be led by C. T. Matott, chief conductor of the O. R. C., and Mrs. W. A. Current, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The card part of the entertainment is being given more prominence than ever and three handsome prizes for gentlemen and three for the ladies will be given. Minuet hall, where the dance and card party will be given, is receiving decorations under the direction of George Trier, and will be more pretty than ever Tuesday night.

PENNSY OFFICIALS COMING.

Messrs. Cellar and Grafton to Be Here Tomorrow.

The annual inspection trip over the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburg by C. A. Cellar, superintendent of telegraph, and W. McC. Grafton, chief signal engineer, of the Pennsylvania lines west, is on. Officials, with their staff officers, left Pittsburg this morning and will come as far west by special train as Crestline, where they will spend the night. Tomorrow they will inspect the Western division and may remain over night in this city. The head of the insurance department is also with Messrs. Cellar and Grafton.

BOOKING SHRINER BUSINESS.

Agent Read Fills Two Cars and Works on a Third.

C. E. Read, who has charge of working up the Shriners' excursion to Los Angeles May 1, on the occasion of the meeting of the order at that city on that date, yesterday completed the disposal of reservations for berths sufficient to fill two Pullman cars and has already taken orders on the third. These cars will be occupied for sleeping purposes by the excursionists during the entire three weeks they are out on the trip.

FRED MEYERS IS OUT.

Fred Meyers, casting inspector at the Bass foundry for the Wabash company, resumed that duty this morning, after an idleness of seven weeks. Mr. Meyers is still quite lame, but is able to get about and look after the business. It will be remembered that he had his left ankle broken by a fall last winter.

WORKING HOURS REDUCED.

This morning the employes in all departments of the Pennsylvania shops except in the passenger car department began working on a nine hour working day schedule, or fifty hours per week. They had been working fifty-five hours per week.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

J. O. Langston, J. H. W. Saaffrank and S. Keliher, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick and off duty.

R. J. Fisher left this morning for St. Louis in the interest of the Bass Foundry and Machine works.

R. W. Shaw, who was taken ill March 20, resumed work in the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop this morning.

R. Stevens quit his position at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop this morning. He has taken employment in Huntington.

Paul Hanley, a watchman at the Pennsylvania shop gates, has recovered from a severe cold and resumed work this morning.

Ed Lebrecht, H. J. Wright, Henry Rohrbach and Peter Berg, who had been off duty for various reasons, reported for work at the Pennsylvania shops this morning.

William Wheeler, a pipefitter, took employment with the power department of the Pennsylvania this morning. He has just completed a four years' term in the United States navy. Before going in the government service he worked in the copper department of the Pennsylvania several years.

Yard Conductor John Malone, of the Wabash, is visiting his sister in Crestline, Ohio, who is very ill. R. E. McNally, also a Wabash yard conductor, is visiting friends in Cincinnati. Emil Florent, Fred Thiebold, H. A. Dittsman and W. E. Rowe, who had been off duty, resumed their duties in the Wabash yards this morning.

Byron Thomas, machinist at the Pennsylvania shops now engaged in special work, has been advised of a little celebration in honor of the fifty-fifth wedding anniversary of the wedding of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas, which took place at the family residence in Brookville, Ind., yesterday. The aged couple have five children, fifteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Byron Thomas was unable to attend the celebration on account of business at the shops.

PECULIAR PRAYER TO COURT

Error of Stenographer Responsible for a Few More Gray Hairs in Head of Lawyer.

"They say that a lawyer has been saved by his stenographer," said an attorney, at a recent lecture. "That is true, undoubtedly, because a lawyer's stenographer, who is observing, gets many points of law out of her work.

"But there is another side to it that must not be overlooked, and that is the mistakes that a lawyer's stenographer makes. The law terms are so technical that it is not within reason to expect the stenographer to get everything exactly right.

"One of the most amusing errors that I have ever heard of in connection with stenographic errors, if I may call it that, occurred in a certain law office the other day. The case was a divorce action, in which the plaintiff alleged cruel and inhuman treatment.

"Plaintiff, being a woman with all the common law disabilities, prayed the court for 'temporary alimony and suit money.' The prayer was dictated to the stenographer and she wrote it out and mailed it to the court.

"Shortly afterward, the lawyer chanced to read a copy and found to his horror that the stenographer had made the prayer one for alimony and soup money.'"

HEAD OF VERY SMARTEST SET

Sadness and gloom have been the portion of a large section of the American Society (be careful of the large S!), since the publication of that remarkable book "The 469 Ultra-Fashionables of America," compiled by Charles Wilbur de Lyon Nichols, on whose shoulders has fallen the mantle of Ward McAllister, inventor of New York's "400." The cream of the cream of American society have now been segregated, coralled, reconcentrated or otherwise abstracted from the common herd and seated on high in the splendor and dazzling radiance of Mr. de Lyon Nichols, august approval. There appears to be, however, a remarkable lack of invention displayed in the New York list of 300 notables. It is confined practically to the guests who were invited to meet the Connaughts and Princess Patricia on their recent visit. Surely New York is going to the dogs when it can only muster a beggarly 300. Even Ward McAllister, in an earlier and less enlightened period, permitted the metropolis to have a sacred circle of 400. The reason may be that only the superfine ultra-fashionables are included in Beau Nichols' arbitrary selection, and that those unfortunates who are at all tainted with the stigma of slowness, who do not fully subscribe to the modern doctrine of "eat, drank and be merry, for tomorrow we die," are dropped relentlessly. Possibly the compiler's wisdom did not wholly desert him and he hesitated to embark on the stormy waters of the next stratum below, being assured of countenance and support by the precedent already established.

Negress Lost Her Chinese Bridegroom

VANCOUVER, Wash.—A comic tragedy in which a Chinaman of Portland and a young negro woman, attired in an old rose colored suit, topped off with a red hat, were actors was staged on the lawn of the county courthouse, with the employes of the building and callers as the audience, when a vain attempt was made to obtain a marriage license. The super was another negro, at least six feet tall, who was to have been the witness had the Chinaman not fled from behind an evergreen tree, where he was left by the young woman in old rose.

The Chinaman, about forty years old and well dressed, wearing no queue, but American clothes, appeared at the courthouse at an early hour, accompanied by the young negress, who he said was twenty-four years old. She was togged out for the happy occasion with a huge bow of black ribbon to hold the front edges of the coat together, an immense red hat and a tremendous smile upon her face.

Finding the auditor's office all right, the Chinaman asked his all-important question, "Catchem license?" He was told that a witness was necessary before the paper would be issued. Turning to his partner, he said: "I know nobody; you catchem witness—me wait. You go downtown—catchem witness, come back, we get mallied."

Taking the native of the Orient to the front of the yard, the negro lassie hid him behind a tree, and admonishing him to remain under cover, she stalked down the street, the plumes in her hat fluttering in the breeze.

Witnesses must have been hard to find, for it was fully three hours before she returned with a tall man of her own race, who was willing to swear that he knew both persons who were desirous of being married. Going stealthily toward the tree, she peered behind it, but the celestial was not there. He had become tired and had lost faith in the negress, and said to the sheriff as he started down the street: "She no catchem witness, me catchem ferry—go home. I guess she no come back. Me go home."

MENINGITIS IN TEXAS HALTED

Serum Securel by New York Doctor Robs Disease of Power.

DEATH RATE LOWER

New York, April 8.—Dr. A. Sopman, who is in charge of the meningitis work at the research laboratory of the health department, has just returned from Texas, where he was called by that state to help check the epidemic of meningitis which has been so fatal in Dallas, Fort Worth and the surrounding country.

Although the death rate had been very high before Dr. Sophian's treatment was used, it dropped immediately to only 10 per cent. of deaths among patients not brought to the hospital in a moribund condition, and to 25 per cent., including those.

This record is very unsual in epidemics of meningitis, and is due to the serum prepared in the health department laboratories under the direction of Dr. William H. Park, by Dr. Sophian, and to his method of administering it.

"An unusual feature of this epidemic," said Dr. Sophian, "was the fact that about 80 per cent. of the cases at first were adults, while usually about 70 to 80 per cent. or more are children.

"The disease was quite fatal in Dallas and the death rate was even higher in the surrounding country.

"Results were unusually good, because cases were sent before they were far advanced; and the cases already in the hospitals were studied so as to fix the time when the serum treatment should be given.

"The serum, first, is highly beneficial if properly injected. Results were somewhat better, probably, because I have introduced a little different method of controlling the injection of serum, which prevents the effects of shock from the administration.

"This method, I have recently been informed, is being used with very good results by the Texas physicians."

Referring to the reports from Texas, respecting the novelty of preventive precautions introduced there by Dr. Sophian, the doctor said that very important measures that might have a bearing on future epidemics was the introduction of preventive measures, especially the prophylactic injection of vaccine.

The idea of this measure is very much the same as typhoid vaccination, which is being used with such good results in the army. The vaccine is prepared in the same way as other vaccines, which is a simple laboratory procedure.

Dr. Sophian said that he introduced the measure before he left Dallas, and that he was informed by the city health officers that it has since been extensively used.

"Another measure looking toward the control of the disease," said Dr. Sophian, "has consisted in strict quarantine of the patients, and those who were exposed, and this has been of considerable aid.

"The actual benefit of this and of the other measures will have to be determined by the study of statistics at the end of the epidemic. The epidemic is abating. It has not grown any worse, and that during a month most unfavorable to the disease. With warm weather it will cease.

"An epidemic such as this holds a lesson. What have we learned from the epidemic in Texas?

It is important to call attention to the fact that this was an unusually good opportunity to really apply methods to control and to treat meningitis, because we were given free rein to go ahead and do what we choose, and in that way we had an opportunity such as one rarely gets to study and treat the disease.

"All the people helped us. Rich and poor alike were induced to go to the hospital for treatment, and untiring work was done night and day by the house staff. In addition, some physicians volunteered their services as diagnosticians. By this combination we obtained facts that will be very important in future epidemics. For one thing, we have learned the possible prevention and spread of the disease.

"The serum used has been prepared at this laboratory under the direction of Dr. William H. Park, director, since the Rockefeller institute stopped the work about two years ago. My work in this laboratory is principally meningitis work. There the serum is prepared, distributed and the administration in New York controlled as far as possible."

The epidemic began to spread to other districts in Texas while Dr. Sophian was in Dallas, and he then visited San Antonio, which was practically free from the disease. The army quarters up to that time were free of the disease and the officers in charge had taken measures to prevent the invasion of the disease among them.

That Texas fully appreciated what was done by Dr. Sophian was attested by the fact that his way through the state was a continual ovation, and that the city of Dallas presented him with a magnificent loving cup, to which the County Medical society, at another function, added a handsome silver tea service.

WHY HE WAS LATE.

"What made you so late?"

"I met Smithson."

"Well, that is no reason why you should be an hour late getting home to supper?"

"I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble."

"Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?"

"Sure, that is what he needs." Sold by all dealers.

Fortune hunters are on the verge of expectancy since announcement today of the approaching sale by auction of the Jane Graham farm, south of here. The eccentric owner, who died a few years ago, was suspicious of banks, and is said to have buried $1,200 in gold on the farm, but died suddenly and failed to reveal the exact spot. It is said a number will bid for the property largely to get a chance at the buried treasure.—Cochocton (Ohio) correspondence Cleveland Plain Dealer.

You will look a good while before you find a better medicine for coughs and colds than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only gives relief—it cures. Try it when you have a cough or cold, and you are certain to be pleased with the prompt cure which it will effect. For sale by all dealers.

Roger Bacon knew lenses, and that they were useful for near vision in the old. For optical purposes, they appear to have been ground first about 1285 by a certain Salvino degil Armati, said to have died in 1317. A monk of Pisa, also has been accredited with the invention of spectacles and with the promotion of their use.

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and before a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever," writes Mrs. H. Silks, 20 Dowling street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is for sale by all dealers.

POULTRY

COLONY HOUSE IS PROFITABLE

Possesses Many Decided Advantages Over Permanent Houses—All Fixtures Made Removable.

Portable colony houses for the farm flock possess a decided advantage over the large permanent house. I make them, however, just as large as the weight will permit. My aim is to have them of such weight that they can be moved anywhere on the farm at any season of the year, writes J. T. Campbell in the New England Homestead. When hard and native lumber is used, the maximum size is 7x9 feet, with rear wall 5 feet 2 inches and front wall 6 feet 10 inches. This permits the use of 12-foot boards without waste, and buildings high enough to work in with comfort.

If light lumber is used in construction the cost is increased somewhat, and we secure the advantage of more room. We find the farm team can handle a 7x12 or 8x10 house of this kind. We use no upright frame at all. The building is operated by the vertical siding. The runners on which these houses rest are made from 4x4 hardwood, and are placed the longer way of the house, set under 12 inches from each side and the ends flush. This keeps the runners from weather exposure, and if care is used to keep them blocked they last as long as the building. The one shown in the accompanying picture is the latest model. It is an object to provide for the admission of an abundance of fresh air without draft. In our earlier buildings we were compelled to use a curtain to keep out the storms or snow. We found this curtain more or less of a nuisance, and have gotten rid of it in the type of house shown.

The roof projects over the opening 2 feet and acts as an awning. It keeps out snow and rain, but admits plenty of air. Three sides of the building are lined under with a cheap grade of two-ply roofing felt, which prevents any wind blowing through cracks and causing drafts. Single board floors are used. Perches are in the back part of the building, with dropping board under them. Nest boxes are under the dropping board to economize space. The water vessel is placed on a shelf 18 inches from the floor. I prefer to have all the fixtures, such as nest boxes, perches and dropping boards, removable. One of these little houses accommodates 30 to 35 Leghorn fowls.

Eggs From Pure-bred Fowls.

It took some of us a good many years to discover that there was more profit in selling eggs from pure bred fowls at $1.50 and $2 per dozen than from the barnyard variety at 25 cents. It is easy to figure that 25 pure breds will earn more money than 100 barnyards.

They are plowing with dynamite now to such an extent that one manufacturer of explosives sold to farmers 500,000 pounds in 1908, 750,000 pounds in 1909, 1,500,000 pounds in 1910, 3,000,000 pounds in 1911, and the indications are that this one concern will ship 5,000,000 pounds to farmers this year.

Don't be surprised if you have an attack of rheumatism this spring. Just rub the affected parts freely with Chamberlain's Liniment and it will soon disappear. Sold by all dealers.

It proposes to raise $100,000, which will be used in recompensing inventors and constructors for devices which will make aeroplanes safe in themselves. For rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Try it and see how quickly it gives relief. For sale by all dealers.

TASTE, SMELL AND HEARING RESTORED

A Simple, Harmless Remedy Quickly Relieves Catarrhal Deafness.

The thousands who suffer the miseries of colds and catarrh and claim they have never found a cure can get instant relief by simply anointing the nostrils with Ely's Cream Balm.

Unlike internal medicines which upset the stomach, or strong snuffs which only aggravate the trouble, this cleansing, healing, antiseptic Balm instantly reaches the seat of the trouble, stops the nasty discharge, clears the nose, head and throat and brings back the sense of taste, smell and improves the hearing. More than this, it strengthens the weakened and diseased tissues, thus protecting you against a return of the trouble. This remedy will cure a cold in a day and prevent its becoming chronic or resulting in catarrh.

Nasal catarrh is an inflammation of the membrane lining the air passages, and cannot be reached by mixtures taken into the stomach, nor can it be cured by snuffs and powders which only cause additional irritation. Don't waste time on them. Get a 50 cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and after using it for a day you will wish you had tried it sooner.

Mothers should give the children Ely's Cream Balm for colds and croup. It is perfectly harmless and pleasant to take.

SCHOOL TEACHER QUEER AFFINITY

Proposes to Rescue Cook from Workhouse and Educate Him.

WIFE IS AN OBSTACLE

Kansas City, Mo., April 8.—This city has seen and studied many affinities, but the queerest of all is Miss Marjorie Dennis, school teacher and college graduate and for a time known as Mrs. Cecil Melton No. 2, who is seeking to rescue her soulmate from the city workhouse. Miss Dennis has got a job teaching school in Arizona for the avowed purpose of raising money to educate Melton, whose natural habitat is in a hotel kitchen surrounded with pots and pans. When Miss Dennis gets through with him she proposes he shall be a business man.

Two serious handicaps, however, must be overcome before Miss Dennis can hope to realize her ambition. First, Melton must be released from the municipal farm. The second difficulty arises from the fact that Melton's wife, unversed in "higher love," insists on dictating terms of the divorce agreement.

Marjorie Dennis is 22 years old. She is a graduate of the Kansas State Normal school at Emporia, and she formerly taught school at King, Ark.

Melton Has Two Children.

Melton is 23 and declares his love for Marjorie. His wife, Florence Melton, is 21. She is the mother of two children. She is a waitress and lives at 111 East Thirteenth street. Marjorie lives at 401 East Fourteenth street.

Melton's father, formerly a physician at Willow Springs, Mo., and now practicing medicine in Arkansas, gave him every opportunity to gain an education. The son, however, ran away and enlisted in the navy. At the close of his enlistment, he returned home and, against his parents' wishes, married a pretty servant girl in his father's home after an acquaintance of two weeks. The marriage proved an unhappy one, and Melton, from the experience he had gained at sea, set forth as a professional cook.

She Becomes a Waitress.

Then entered on the scene, Marjorie, of the "higher learning and the soulful love." An attack of blood poisoning which forced her temporarily to give up her school work, coupled with the business failure of her father, left her without resources, too late to get a school. She got a place as a waitress in the hotel where Melton was a cook. Then, to quote Miss Dennis:

"Most dear to a woman is sympathy, understanding, gentle attentions. Thrust into a strange and most unpleasant environment, how I came to treasure and rely upon the friendship of this man in the kitchen who was different to me than all the others.

"What if he was a cook? What I had been, I could be again, and what I could be, this young man could be—and much more.

"Our love was strong, natural, inevitable. But always we were conventional."

But Florence, the wife, came to Kansas City and had located her delinquent husband. She threatened trouble, and this Miss Dennis and the affinity and his father sought to avoid.

"We went to Florence and talked freely to her," said Marorie, "and she in turn seemed amenable to reason. She was to obtain a divorce—I to bear the expense."

Saving Cecil From Wickedness.

In Kansas City Miss Dennis became known as Mrs. Melton, despite the fact that another Mrs. Cecil Melton lived only a few blocks away. Marjorie said that was all right. For Cecil to have continued to live with Florence without love would, to her mind, "have been wicked."

But the language of the soulmates began to irritate Mrs. Melton. To quote her:

"I fell for this soul-attraction stuff at first, but I got over it. That talk's nothing but a lot of big-syllable words. I'm not bothering about the higher education, either. What I want is my rights and my two little children. As for my husband, he's just where I want him. Marjorie can write him all the letters she wants, but I've got the satisfaction of knowing she's got to address them to him at the municipal workhouse."

RELIGION AND MEN MOVEMENT

Unique Crusade of Men Sweeping Across the Entire Country.

TO REACH NEW YORK

New York, April 8.—The last battles of the Men and Religion Forward Movement which has been sweeping across the country will be fought in New York city in the Christian Conservation congress in behalf of the World Christian brotherhood, with its central convention at Carnegie hall, on April 19 and 24.

This movement, organized along business lines by business men two years ago, has taken the country section by section and worked gradually toward New York. The purpose is to get the men and boys of the Protestant denominations back into the churches from which they have drifted in large numbers in the last ten years. Today it is said that women in the churches greatly outnumber the men.

Auxiliary centers will be established in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, the Broadway Tabernacle and the Central Presbyterian church. The campaign for Manhattan and the Bronx will cover the period from April 14 to 18.

The opening meeting will be at the Hippodrome on Sunday, April 14. The closing meeting will be at Carnegie hall on April 18; it will be a union of all institutes. An evangelistic meeting will be conducted at the Hippodrome April 21 by "Gypsy" Smith. A summary of the surveys of the campaign cities will be given at Carnegie hall, and before and after the regular sessions experts will give special lectures upon themes under discussion and hold open forums.

Arrangements have been made with the railroads for a rate of one and three-fifths fare, good for points east of El Paso, Texline, Denver and Cheyenne.

Eighteen sessions are to be held in Carnegie hall. At the first session James G. Cannon, of the committee of ninety-seven business men, philanthropists, etc., who have carried on the work, will report on the results of the campaign. William Jennings Bryan will speak on April 19 and Booker Washington the following day. Richard P. Hobson, William T. Stead, Jane Addams, Bishop Greer and the Rev. John H. Jowett will speak at the succeeding sessions.

"Big Seller" of 1758.

In more hardy days than these snuff was used as an eye liniment. "The Compleat Housewife, or Accomplished Gentlewoman's Companion," which had run into 16 editions by 1758, extols its virtues. Accomplished gentlewomen who find their sight failing with advancing years are advised to rub "the right sort of Portugal snuff into the eyes night and morning, and take it also through the nose." This treatment, it is asserted, "cured Sir Edward Seymour, Sir John Houblon and Judge Ayres, so that they could read without spectacles after they had used them for many years." Some people would prefer spectacles.

BAN ON WRONG SUITORS.

"Black List" Maintained by Mothers of Young Men Whose Habits Offend.

Catlin, Ill., April 5.—The mothers of Catlin, with a view to protecting their daughters through investigation of the standing and character of suitors, have formed a mother's protective association and plan to extend it to other cities of Central Illinois, such as Ridge Farm, Georgetown, Oakwood, Fairmount and Sidell. With an inter-city association the mothers of one city can secure information concerning any young man who may come courting their daughters from any member of the association in a neighboring town.

Here are the points which mothers will ask to be enlightened upon when a suitor appears:

Does he smoke cigarettes?
Does he drink?
Is he known to be profane or vulgar?
Does he read good books?
Does he go to church or Sunday school?
Does he spend his evenings at home or in saloons?
Is he considerate of his mother and sisters?
What are his business prospects?

In addition there are a number of blank lines in the form to be filled in with any additional information not covered by these questions.

It is often said that "marriage is a lottery," but the mothers feel that the chances for drawing a prize will be vastly increased and the danger of drawing an undesirable will be greatly diminished through the "mothers' association."

Some conception of the severity of the weather in the west can be had from the extraordinary death of a twelve-year-old boy who was buried by the snow thrown from a rotary plow on the Rock Island road at Smith Center, Kan. He was with a number of boys who were watching the plow throw some seventy-five feet or more, and when the others scrambled out from a sudden avalanche he was not missed. Two hours later he was found dead under the snow.

USE ICE TO COOL CHURCH EDIFICE

Baptist Church in Oklahoma Adopts Novel Plan for Summer Months.

IS A NEW BUILDING

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 8.—The new $150,000 Baptist church, just opened, embodies as completely as any structure in the United States the principles of beauty, utility and technical efficiency.

The Gothic scheme is worked out in every detail of the building, even to the pews and the mural decorations. It is essentially an early English adaptation of the Gothic style, with a long auditorium flanked by buttresses. The church faces Robinson avenue and is set back about twenty feet from the sidewalk. This permits grass plots in front, as well as on both sides of the church. Directly opposite Eleventh street is a large, graceful tower, through which runs the main entrance to the building. On the opposite corner is a smaller entrance.

The main auditorium has been pronounced by visiting ministers and architects as the most beautiful and tastefully designed in the country. Counting choir seats, the total seating capacity of the room is 2,000, the choir area itself seating in excess of 100. There are 400 individual lights in the auditorium.

Underneath the auditorium is a large social hall with a small stage, which is directly connected with the kitchen and pantry. Access to the hall is gained by four stairways from the first floor. Directly back of the auditorium is the Sunday school assembly hall. On one side is the ladies' parlor, while on the opposite side are the primary class room and the kindergarten rooms. These rooms are so arranged as to be thrown together, and both rooms, together with the women's room, can be made a part of the main hall. In the rear of the auditorium are six class rooms. In the second story balcony are twelve small class rooms and three large class rooms.

The pastor's study, the Philathea room and the men's class room also are on this floor.

In the basement are large Baraca class rooms, the gymnasium room, the boiler room, machinery room and janitor's quarters. Complete toilet arrangements are provided on all floors.

The entire church is steam heated by the plenum system, the heated air being forced through the building by a large silent electric fan in the basement. The equipment is so complete that the air inside the church is changed every fifteen minutes. In summer the plant is used to force ice cooled air through the building.

The new pipe organ is said to be the second largest in the United States, having three-fourths as many pipes as the famous organ in the Salt Lake City tabernacle of the Latter Day Saints.

Want Pink Cheeks—Red Lips?

Some unfortunate men and women are are prone to wonder why some of their friends are blessed with an abundance of color—pink cheeks and red lips—while theirs are always colorless. The reason for this last named condition is—there is not enough red blood corpuscles in the blood—under a microscope the blood is thin and watery. The flesh is flabby, too. Well known physicians assert that the regular administration for several months, of three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets will greatly improve the color, add to the weight, make the cheeks pink and the lips red, and in general be very beneficial. For self-administration, obtain from any of the best apothecary shops.

The aim of the Foster Furniture Co. is to make a customer every time it makes a sale.

You can't afford to miss Tuesday or Wednesday, April 9 and 10, "Sumter to Appomattox" entertainment at Odeon hall. Fort Wayne Lutheran City League.

Moving Day Rehearsals

Suggestion That We Ought to Make It National Holiday

"It won't be long now till that grand annual spectacle, Moving Day, is once more staged in our midst," sighed the Troubled Tourist.

"Already rehearsals for it are in progress in our most select apartment circles. Moving day is not a thing to be tackled lightly, so it is to perfect himself in the gentle art of juggling furniture that the husband gets ready by having a few rehearsals under the direction of his wife.

"Moving day ceremonies are probably the most ancient household rites in the world. Even the cave men used to cart off their upholstered rock furniture to some other cavern regularly every spring, and I suppose there were as many mashed thumbs and swear words then as the auspicious occasion always calls for these days.

"Why we always have to be on the move nobody knows. Some folks have figured that it really is cheaper to pay rent and stay awhile, but this opinion is not shared unanimously, I find.

"REHEARSING MOVING DAY."

"There be men who wouldn't miss wrestling with a dining room table or a stove once a year for anything, and their wives wouldn't miss it either. If only for the pleasure of seeing them work.

"After a while I suppose we'll have to make a national holiday of Moving Day, like St. Patrick's Day, and give everybody a chance to play the game. We might organize a tournament and give prizes for different moving events.

"For instance, a month's rent free for a speed and endurance prize, like dropping a piano from the fourth floor window without injuring the sidewalk, or dragging a heavy trunk down five flights of stairs without hitting the same step twice. These could be made very pleasant little affairs, the whole entertainment to wind up with a moving van chariot race around the block.

"Prizes could also be offered for the longest distance covered in moving by any one contestant. I met a man not long ago who was rehearsing for Moving Day, and he figured he'd travelled 4,758 miles by taking advantage of every moving day for twenty years. Records like that only go to show that it pays to see your own town before you travel abroad."

JACOBS

The Piano Market of Fort Wayne

Visit Jacobs Music House For Pianos and Player Pianos

The Jacobs line of Pianos speaks for itself. Actually there is not another line in Fort Wayne or any other City in Indiana to compare with it.

Kranich & Bach, A. B. Chase, Krakauer, Lauter, Shoninger, Bogart, Keller, Story & Clark, Vough, Christman, Smith & Barnes, Clarendon, Apollo and Cecilian. Any of the above makes can be had as regular player-pianos.

Jacobs' prices are just as attractive as the Jacobs Pianos. In fact, one of the reasons that the Jacobs Music House was chosen to represent so many celebrated Pianos and Player-Pianos, was that it sells more instruments than any other exclusive Piano Store in the City, and that enables us to sell at guaranteed lowest prices in the State.

Lowest prices mean volume of business, and the great manufacturers naturally choose as their agent the Stores whose sales are the larger.

If you invest in either a Piano or Player-Piano, you are certain to do one of two things: You will either visit Jacobs' Music house, or you will wish you had.

SEEKS TO KILL HIS SWEETHEART

Otto Brown Shoots Girls as She is Clasped in His Arms.

LOVE AT LOGANSPORT

Logansport, Ind., April 8. Otto C. Brown, 19, son of a Macy, Ind., farmer, last night shot and probably fatally wounded his sweetheart, Leona Ehlinger, 15, then committed suicide, because the girl's mother refused her consent to their marriage on account of their ages.

Brown left two notes, one of which he signed "Leona," indicating that he had carefully planned the double tragedy in case marriage was refused him. In the note to which he signed his own name Brown asked that he be buried beside his victim and concluded with "May shame befall anyone who defies this wish." Physicians say the girl has a slight chance for recovery.

Brown, at first appeared reconciled to the mother's ultimatum but as he prepared to go, he called the girl into another room and while he held her in his arms, shot her. He continued to hold her until he had shot himself through the heart. At the hospital Miss Ehlinger told the physician "I wish he had killed me too, as long as he has killed himself."

MIZPAH PATROL HIGHLY HONORED

Selected With Six Others to Give Public Exhibition at Los Angeles.

PICKED OUT OF 80

Out of eighty Shrine patrols that will attend the annual meeting of the imperial council, to be held at Los Angeles, six have been selected to appear publicly at the Theater Beautiful, and in this number the crab patrol of Mizpah temple has been chosen. This is a great honor and reflects credit on every officer and member of the local shrine, at the same time putting the name of Fort Wayne before the public.

E. H. Kilbourne, captain of the local patrol, is drilling his men constantly, and tonight the members of the patrol will begin work on a new drill which includes ninety-one movements, during which time not a single command will be given. The drill was prepared by Mr. Kilbourne after considerable trouble, and when presented at the Los Angeles meeting will introduce a new feature in patrol drills.

BARNES WILL IS FILED IN COURT

Personal Property Disposed of and Realty is to Be Divided Later.

OTHER COURT CASES

An original will and two codicils were filed in the circuit court today and probated under which the estate of the late Ann E. Barnes is disposed of. For the present the realty will be left intact and it will eventually go to the grandchildren.

During his life Dr. William Shryock, a son, will have the revenue from the property which includes his residence and the big store building on West Berry street occupied by Wolf & Dessauer.

Under the last codicil, which was drawn in the summer of 1910 the real estate is to be divided at the death of Dr. Shryock among the grandchildren, Bartlett, Christine, Louise and Ann Ward Shryock.

In the will particular care has been exercised to prevent the construction of a building west of the store building that will in any way interfere with the light or air and the property is so entailed that this cannot be accomplished.

Special bequests of jewelry, clothing and furniture were made to Jennie Bayless, Emily Shryock, Ann Ward Shryock and Christine L. Shryock. No estimate of the value of the property has been filed.

Charges Abandonment.

Artemus R. Hopkins has entered suit in the superior court asking a divorce from Lutie M. Hopkins. They were married Dec. 25, 1892 and he charges that she abandoned him in May, 1907. Hubert E. Hartman filed the suit.

Demands His Papers.

Joseph W. Lawler has entered suit against the Labor Times Herald to recover 2,500 copies of a special industrial edition. Editor Gart Shober is holding them until a contract under which the work is done has been produced.

TRACK ELEVATION DEADLOCK BROKEN

opening of Harrison street. There are also some sidewalk changes to be made.

May Be Opened This Year.

If the agreement is ratified Harrison street may be opened this year. The Harrison $3,000. In addition the company will cancel a debt of $2,000 which the city agreed to pay for additional street width at Calhoun street.

The settlement is in line with the citizens' committee, which was organized to aid the city officials in disposing of the question of grade separation. This committee insisted that the work west of Calhoun street be divorced entirely from that east of the thorough-Pennsylvania company and the city are ready to take it up at once for the reason that so much of the work can be done in connection with the additional trackage and the new station and neither party will want to disturb conditions again after the station is built.

The city has an agreement with the Wabash company under which it has contracted to open Harrison street in 1913, but it may take up the work this year, because it will be cheaper to do it while the Pennsylvania is engaged in the task and it will also afford better means of reaching the Wabash freight house.

Saving to the City.

In event the terms are accepted and the city council gives its approval the saving to the city will amount to between $15,000 and $18,000 on the streets yet to be opened.

The difference at College street will be about $4,000, at Union $2,700 and at fare and the board of works was obliged under this appeal to recede from the position it had taken at Clinton street, which will be taken care of when it comes up in the regular order of grade separation.

Board Members Relieved.

Members of the board of public works are greatly relieved by the agreement submitted by the company. Mayor Grice and City Attorney H. G. Hogan are both pleased that the matter has reached a point where a settlement is in sight that will effectually dispose of a question that has been under fire for a long time.

The city will pay all the costs at the crossings as the work proceeds and after it is finished a settlement will be made. One of the courts will be asked for an interpretation of the law and as a matter of precedent it may be taken to the highest court in the state so that the company will know just where it stands in grade separation work.

If the law is applied to the work done at Calhoun street, Fairfield avenue and Broadway, the city will save $33,000 over a previous interpretation which had been given the law.

HEARING BOTH SIDES OF ISSUE

Religious Garb in Government Schools Under Discussion.

ORDER CAUSED CLASH

Washington, April 8.—Representatives of Catholic and Protestant organizations were heard today by Secretary Fisher, of the interior department, in relation to the recent order issued by Mr. Valentine, commissioner of Indian affairs, forbidding the wearing of religious garb by teachers in Indian schools which receive government support. This order was suspended by direction of President Taft.

Certain Catholic mission schools for the education of Indians were taken over by the government, but Catholic teachings continued. When Commissioner Valentine issued his order, protests were made by the bureau of Catholic Indian missions and other Catholic organizations. After the order had been suspended, several Protestant organizations protested to the president and the secretary of the interior, urging that Mr. Valentine's order should stand.

It is understood that many dignitaries of the Catholic church have sent representatives on the subject directly to President Taft.

saved none of their personal belongings. Many of them were almost naked when they reached the river boats. The boat captains and more fortunate of the sufferers divided clothing with the needy.

The steamer Kate Adams, which was near Modoc when the crevasse occurred near there, probably saved hundreds of lives by taking refugees from rafts and housetops. In the midst of the rescue work the steamer put out a skiff to save a woman who sat on the roof of her floating house. She sent word back to the captain that she would not leave unless he would consent to take her dead baby aboard the steamer. Accordingly a soap box was sent to the floating house. The woman brought out the babe's corpse, placed it in the box and was rowed to the steamer. The little body was brought to Memphis and buried here today.

Wouldn't Leave His Mule.

One of the Lee steamers from the Arkansas country that reached here today told of a desperate fight with a negro who refused to leave a raft on which he floated unless he was allowed to bring his mule. As a last resort the captain of the boat tied the raft bearing the mule behind the steamer and towed raft, mule, negro and all into Memphis.

A Welcome to Mr. Bryan, the Great Commoner

By HENRY M. WILLIAMS.

A man's usefulness to his fellows is the measure of his right to occupy space on this little earth, which is getting very crowded, and Mr. Bryan measures up high according to that standard, one of the three ablest men in the entire United States in influence for good.

A Progressive.

Mr. Bryan is a "progressive." Progress is the law of the universe, and he who is not in harmony with the laws of the universe in which he lives, would better drop out at once, he is not earning his keep, the space he occupies.

If this were a political mission on which Mr. Bryan appears in Fort Wayne today my toast to him at the banquet tonight at "The Anthony" would be as follows:

"To Wm. J. Bryan, America's great commoner, the most uncommonly wise and able critic and suppressor of unprogressive candidates in the presidential field."

Underwood and Harmon are down and out, with possibly one more to follow, the warning to him being, Mr. Bryan "will surely get you, if you don't look out."

A Standpatter.

I remember the case of a German in Berlin with a most tremendous paunch, almost like the cartoonist pictures of our modern "standpatter" trusts. After he had cleared the table of everything eatable, with a look of complete satisfaction in his face, his big stomach evidencing it, also, that old familiar German expression came out of his large mouth, "Ich bin sat," which coincides exactly with our modern expression, though forty years apart, and makes a rhyme too:

"Ich bin sat."
"I stand pat."

The prayer of the modern "standpatter" is:

"Bless me and my wife,
My son John and his wife,
Us four and no more.
Amen. So be it. Selah."

And deliver the goods at the back door.

Mr. Bryan, though a wealthy man, has a heart as large as a big barn door opening, and his present undertaking is extremely generous, the free gift of the proceeds of fourteen of his lectures to the benefit of the colleges at Winona Lake, the great educational center of northeastern Indiana.

THREE DIE IN FLOOD.

Sudden Rise of River in Canada Engulfs Party of Eight.

Sherbrooke, Que., April 8.—The sudden rise of the Coaticoke river at Compton last night caused the death of three persons. Edward Poulin was driving Mrs. George Veileux and her six children to a party when the flood unexpectedly swept over the road and left them all struggling in the stream. Polin sank immediately and his body was not recovered. Three of the children were dragged out, but Mrs. Veileux and the other children floated down the current clinging to a stump. When help reached them two of the little ones were dead.

DROPS DEAD AT FIRE.

Washington, Pa., April 8.—While leading a party of neighbors in an attempt to extinguish a fire that was destroying his home, near here, today, Robert Williams suddenly threw up his hands and fell dead from heart disease.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., April 8.—An unusual number of orders to sell May wheat today broke the price of that option more than 2c a bushel. At the decline sellers withdrew and the market rallied in an erratic fashion. May started at $1.03½ and then fell to $1.01½, but recovered to $1.03. Meanwhile the range for July did not exceed ¾.

Bad crop reports from sections east of the Mississippi made the crowd reluctant to press the selling. Closing prices were steady with May $1.03¾ and July 97¼@97⅜c, net losses, respectively, of ½c and ⅛@¼c.

Corn suffered from lack of support. May opened at 76½c and dropped to 76¼c.

Unloading by longs led to a further backset, but the effect did not last. The close was steady at 76⅝c for May corn, a decline of ⅝@¾c net.

Commission houses and local speculators made a determined bear raid on oats. May started at 56⅜c and sagged to 56⅛c.

A decline at the yards carried down provisions. Initial sales of July were $17.45 for pork, $9.92½ for lard and $9.70 to $9.72½ for ribs.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, April 8.—United States Steel was again the feature on the resumption of operations in the stock market today. The first offering was a block of 6,000 shares at 73, a gain of ⅝ over last week's closing. There were 1-point gains by Canadian Pacific and Republic Iron and Steel, with substantial fractional gains elsewhere. Amalgamated Copper inclined to heaviness, as also did Missouri Pacific.

The market was stimulated by the settlement of the English coal strike.

Pennsylvania, long inactive, advanced to its best price in almost a year, and New York Central also rose substantially. Liggett & Myers jumped 5½ and Lorillard 5 points.

Trading in the first two hours approximated 2,000,000 shares. Bonds were irregular.

Belated strength in the copper group did not prevent recessions in other leaders, especially Union Pacific, Reading and United States Steel, all of which sold at the lowest. Rock Island common and preferred jumped up ⅝. These movements were evidently designed to facilitate distribution of stock. The close was irregular.

SAYS MORMONS WANT TO RULE

Dr. T. C. Cliff, Missionary in West, Tells of Growth of Church.

A POLITICAL POWER

Kansas City, Mo., April 8.—Great alarm was manifested in the recent Methodist conference here at the report of conditions in the western states by the Rev. Thomas C. Iliff, of Denver, who declared that the Mormon church now controlled the politics of six of the states and was gradually extending its power into others.

"Mormonism is more dangerous today," he said, "because of its political ascendancy than at any time in its history."

Dr. Iliff was for twenty years a missionary in Utah and traveled extensively through that state, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, Arizona and Nevada, Oregon, Washington, New Mexico and Colorado will fall under their domination next, he says, through holding the balance of power between the two great political parties.

"The Mormon church," Dr. Iliff said, "is growing stronger rapidly, with no effort being made to stop its political advance. The surplus Mormons of Utah, beyond the necessary number to control its politics, are colonized in other states. In this way the dominion of the church is rapidly being spread all over the mountain and Pacific coast states.

Smoot Realizes on Church Power.

"While the church's work is going on in the west, Senator Reed Smoot is keeping the powers in Washington in good humor. Today he is the biggest figure in the political field on the side of the republicans. His position as the political figurehead of the church gives him more power in Washington than any other politician. His wish carries with it more weight in Washington than that of any other senator. Every one knows that President Taft has visited Salt Lake City three times and has talked in the Mormon tabernacle.

"Polygamy is just as much practiced now as at any other time in the history of the church. Joseph F. Smith, the prophet of the church, is living with five wives. And the Mormon church means to make the entire west what Utah is and has been. There are no smoother politicians in the United States than the heads of the Mormon church, and they know that what they may never accomplish otherwise they can accomplish by playing one political party against the other.

Politics as Church Boon.

"Politics keeps Smoot in his seat, although under the law he is not entitled to it. Politics will keep the Mormon church alive and through politics it is growing and expanding until soon, unless means are found to check it, it will dominate the entire west. Then it will begin to spread eastward. It is stronger today than it ever has been, and it will be still stronger tomorrow."

Dr. Iliff's report created great interest and the conference will consider plans to be brought up at its next session for checking the growth of the Mormon church. The reports showed that the Mormons were spending many thousands of dollars every year to support missionaries in this country, who are winning converts from the Protestant churches, while the Protestant churches are spending their energies and money to convert the heathen of the jungle.

Among the birds seen for the first time in the British islands last year were a North American sandpiper, a Siberian pine bunting, a North American peregrine falcon captured in a plover net on the Lincolnshire coast and an American pipit. The last named bird was not only the first in Britain, but the third ever noted on the whole continent of Europe.

RULER OF SMALLEST STATE

By the death of William Alexander, Grand Duke of Luxemburg, which occurred recently, a demure young woman not yet 18 becomes sovereign of that little principality. She is the late ruler's eldest daughter, the Grand Duchess Marie. Luxemburg is a state of 998 square miles in the angle where Germany, France and Belgium meet. It has about 250,000 people. From time immemorial it has been an appanage of the House of Nassau. It was therefore virtually part of Holland, though separated from it until the death of Queen Wilhelmina's father in 1890. Then it followed the male line to the father of the grand duke just dead. In 1907 the succession in the female line was instituted by a family statute.

At a time, some years ago, when it seemed likely that Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, would be childless, she designated this young grand duchess as heir to the throne of the Netherlands and was about to ask the Dutch states general to pass the necessary legislation to this end. Shortly afterward, however, the hopes of the Dutch people for a direct heir to the throne were gratified by the birth of the little Princess Juliana.

The grand duchess is described as an unusually pretty girl, impatient of advice, quick tempered and impulsive—characteristics which greatly displease the royal busy-bodies who are already occupied in selecting for her a suitable husband.

MINE OF MISSING MAN A BONANZA

Family of Man Who Disappeared 40 Years Ago Says It is Murder.

BUT OTHERS SAY NOT

Denver, April 8.—For forty years the family of Edward Moritz Eisenbeiser have been trying to find him or his grave. Whther he wandered away from home or was killed by persons who succeeded in robbing him of his entire estate has never been determined, though the latter theory is the one which is given the most credence by his relatives.

According to Paul Heyden, husband of Eisenbeiser's niece and only surviving heir, who lives in Alamosa, circumstances point to two persons who, he believes, murdered his uncle. One of them is dead and the other is now living in Colorado.

Eisenbeiser was a very wealthy miner. He came to Colorado and settled at Summitville in 1868. Andrew Ruder accompanied him and became his partner in mining ventures.

Eisenbeiser was last seen in company with Ruder. A few days later, when Eisenbeiser did not return to his home, his family became suspicious and notified the sheriff. A posse was sent after Ruder, who escaped through a rear window of his brother's house. The sheriff is said to have traced him to Chicago, and later to Joliet, where Ruder deposited about $4,000 in a bank to Eisenbeiser's credit. No word was had from Ruder until the time of his death, when it was learned that he had been living in Chicago with one of his brothers.

Ten years after Eisenbeiser's disappearance the mine which Ruder and Eisenbeiser jointly owned at Summitville was sold to Thomas Bowen by Ruder and another for $3,000. The mine has since been sold for $250,000, and it is that property which the Heydens are trying to recover—either for Eisenbeiser, if he is alive, or for themselves if he is dead.

Henry Born has told the sheriff at Pagosa Springs, according to a letter received from the sheriff by Heyden, that he knows where Eisenbeiser is buried and that it is not much more than 100 miles from Alamosa. He has offered to take Heyden or the sheriff to the grave if they will pay him.

Heyden insists that Eisenbeiser was murdered and he intends to file complaint as soon as he can get evidence.

"I am going to get at the bottom of this affair," said Heyden. "If Eisenbeiser was murdered—and I am certain he was—I am going to see that the guilty man is punished. I can do it, for I've got enough money of my own to go the limit of the law. There are people here in Denver implicated in the affair who would almost faint if they knew how much I know about it. I have worked hard to collect evidence and now something is going to happen to somebody. I don't mind saying that I think it was Ruder and another man who killed my uncle. The way in which his property, both real and personal, was handled by them is sufficient evidence in itself, to my mind, to prove that Eisenbeiser was murdered."

Eisenbeiser was a soldier in the war with Mexico. He was given land in Colorado by the government in recognition of his services. Part of the land is now known as Capitol Hill, in Denver.

Is Taken Into Custody at Huntington and Held.

Huntington, Ind., April 8.—Leaving his father's farm for the first time in his life Stanley Packer, 21 years old, of Winfall, Pa., enroute to Sacramento, Cal., became suddenly insane on Erie passenger train Sunday and when it arrived in Huntington broke loose from his companion, Frank Storres, ran madly down Market street and was finally captured by Sheriff P. M. McCarty. While being conducted to the jail last night for safe keeping he broke loose from the officers and ran to Byron street before he was recaptured.

Packer first showed signs of insanity when the train was approaching the state line.
